Two Ohio Areas Jarred By Quake

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A seismograph recorded a "superficial" earthquake over a wide-spread area of central and southeastern Ohio shortly before midnight. Many persons were roused from their sleep by vibrations but there were no reports of damage.
Father Joseph P. Lynch, in charge of the seismograph at Fordham University in New York City, said the quake was recorded at 11:48.08 Friday night, some 500 to 600 miles south and west of New York.
He called it a "resettlement quake" and said it was a resettling of the earth's crust, continuing from the glacial period. He said that area of Ohio gets such quakes on rare occasions.
Reports of tremors came from Columbus' east side to Athens in the southeast part of the state, a distance of about 75 miles.
A man in the Hebron area, about 25 miles east of here, said the vibrations almost shook his house trailer from its base.

Loan Okayed For $160,000 In Water Plan

FHA Action Clears Way For Contracts At Lawrenceville

The closing of a $160,000 loan to the Lawrenceville Public Service District for its new water distribution project has been announced in Morgantown by A. James Manchinn, West Virginia director of the Farmers Home Administration.
"The Farmers Home Administration assistance will enable the district to enter into contracts with R. K. McKee of Columbiana, Ohio, for the construction and installation of the system; with the Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Co. of Pittsburgh for the storage tank and fencing; and with the Rockwell Manufacturing Co. of Pittsburgh for water meters," Manchinn said.
"The new system will include approximately five miles of distribution line, a booster line and a 200,000-gallon storage tank. Fire hydrants will be provided to insure adequate fire protection for the District's residents."
"Treated water for the system will be purchased from the city of Chester, chlorinated and pumped into the new system lines. The completed project will provide a modern water supply system for over 175 families and five commercial users in the District."
Manchinn lauded William Schladen, chairman of the Lawrenceville Public Service District; James Fox, secretary, and Donald Shaw, treasurer, and the residents for "their sincere interest and devoted efforts in seeing the project carried

The Teamsters Unions which has announced no official strike call, reportedly was ordering its men back to work in cities where walkouts interrupted work.
TEI stuck with its wage offer of 44 cents per hour over a three-year contract, including an 11-cent cost-of-living adjustment, plus what it said was 12 cents in fringe benefits and 6 cents in additional cost-of-living payments.
An industry spokesman said this 62-cent package offer compared with Teamsters demands totaling 90 cents per hour.
Although the threatened railroad strike isn't as imminent, federal officials reportedly viewed it as grave, especially in view of the trucking dispute.
While Simkin directed trucking negotiations on the first floor of the Labor Department until early today, Reynolds worked on the railroad dispute two flights up.

Both Syria And Israel Fire Charge

Accusations Fly Following Biggest Air Clash In Years

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel and Syria charged each other with aggression after fighting the sharpest Middle East air battle since the Arab-Israeli war of 1948 Friday in a dispute over border farmland.
Israel took its charges to the United Nations, but did not ask for specific action by the Security Council.
Israel claimed it shot down six Syrian MIG21s in three dog-fights. It said no Israeli Mirage fighters were lost, but one man was killed and one wounded in ground fighting with tanks and artillery.
Syria claimed it downed five Israeli planes and killed at least 70 Israelis, and acknowledged losing four of its own planes. It reported five dead and an unspecified number injured.
Israeli Ambassador Michael Comay sent a letter to Canadian Ambassador George Ignatieff, Security Council president, to inform him of what Comay called "continuing acts of aggression and provocation by Syrian armed forces."
Syria did not reply immediately to Israel's aggression charge but when a halt was reported in the firing, Damascus radio said Syrian forces had "put down an Israeli aggression."

Toll May Go Higher

48 Known Dead As Korean Plane Rips Slum Area

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A twin-engine South Korean air force transport plummeted into a teeming slum and exploded today. Rescuers reported 48 dead and 30 injured, and feared the toll would go higher.
The crash set off a huge fire that trapped many victims inside their wooden houses. The injured included 13 high school students who jumped from second-floor classrooms after the plane exploded 50 yards from their school.
Among the dead were the pilot, Capt. Suh Keun-joo, two crewmen and 11 passengers on the plane. Besides the students, 17 persons were seriously burned or injured.
Authorities said the C46 transport belonging to the 5th Air Transport Squadron fell shortly before noon, five minutes after taking off in a drizzle from Yoido Air Base on a flight to Taejeon, 130 miles to the southeast.
Eyewitnesses reported that the plane appeared to have engine trouble. They said it circled at low altitude three times, struck the dome of a Christian church on a hill and crashed in flames.
A series of explosions followed, as gasoline spilled from the plane and spread the fire. About 30 wooden buildings housing about 70 families were burned.
The area is populated by laborers, many of whom had stayed home because of the rainy weather.
Narrow alleys kept fire engines from reaching the area, but the blaze was brought under control in 1 1/2 hours.
Rescue workers recovered 15 bodies, including those of crewmen and children, within two hours. More than 10 persons were hospitalized with serious burns.
Bits of bodies and debris from the plane were found 450 yards from the crash site.
Mayor Kim Hyun-ok and Air Force Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Chang Chi-ryang directed rescue efforts.
Police took a roll call but the confusion made it impossible to determine exactly how many were killed and injured.

South Seeks 'Birthday' Cease-Fire

Vietnamese Would Discuss May 23 'Truce' With Cong

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam proposed today a one-day cease-fire despite the threat of expanded warfare in the demilitarized zone, and offered to discuss with North Vietnam the possibility of a longer truce.
With concurrence of the United States and her other allies, South Vietnam proposed a 24-hour truce for May 23, the birthday of Buddha. It proposed meeting representatives of North Vietnam in the demilitarized zone at the Ben Hai Bridge to consider a possible extension.
Expanded fighting in the zone has been a matter of mounting concern.
The U.S. mission disclosed that six nurses were evacuated from Hue, biggest city near the zone, and that preparations have been made to evacuate about 50 other American civilians in the two northernmost provinces of South Vietnam.
The North Vietnamese are known to have some 35,000 soldiers in the immediate area of the demilitarized zone.
Some U. S. officials occasionally have voiced fears of a direct Red invasion across the DMZ. Tension began to mount when the North Vietnamese attacked the South Vietnamese civil police post Wednesday and followed the next day with a wave of pre-dawn attacks on BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The vice president came to tell us.

Harmel was to be Humphrey's host at supper tonight. Both men want the Kennedy Round of trade talks in Geneva successfully concluded and both are interested in a nuclear non-proliferation treaty.
Money problems between the United States and Europe may also come up.

Woman 'Fair' In Stabbing At Lisbon Home

LISBON — Mrs. Kathryn Clunk, 51, of 534 N. Jefferson St., is in fair condition at Salem City Hospital with a puncture wound in the stomach.
Police charged her husband, Howard, 51, with assault with a dangerous weapon, a knife, Friday night at home.
A laborer for the Columbiana County Highway Department, Clunk is in the County Jail. He will be arraigned in Southwest Court, but a date has not been set nor bond fixed.
Officer John Vokovich said he received a call about 9:15 from Dr. Reinhold Rankis, Lisbon physician, to go to the Clunk residence.
The officer said he found Mrs. Clunk sitting on a davenport, clutching the lower left side of her abdomen with both hands. He said he could see her dress was stained with blood. Clunk was standing near by.
Dr. Rankis arrived, examined the wound and told Mrs. Clunk she would have to go to the hospital. Vokovich called the volunteer fire department ambulance and, at the woman's request, permitted Clunk to accompany her.

Tavern Companion Cites Conversation After 'Massacre'

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Richard Speck, accused of killing eight nurses, was quoted at his trial as telling tavern acquaintances a few hours after the massacre, "Whoever did it must have been a sex maniac."

The testimony came Friday as the state strove to prove that Speck spent July 14 the day of the multiple killings, trying to hide his identity and elude police who already were on his trail.

Speck, a 25-year-old drifter and sometime seaman, is charged with strangling or stabbing the nurses in their townhouse dormitory on Chicago's far South Side. The first week of testimony in the trial ended Friday.

Robert (Red) Gerrald, who shipped briefly with Speck on an oil tanker, testified he toured taverns with the defendant less than eight hours after the girls were slain.

Gerrald, a merchant seaman, said that in one tavern the conversation turned to the murdered nurses.

'No Withdrawal In Viet,' Romney Declares In Talk

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Michigan Gov. George Romney vows a Republican White House under his command would not yield to Communist terms in Vietnam. Democrats said Romney's position would lessen the war's impact as a presidential campaign issue.

Republican Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky said Romney spoke the view of an American majority — "that we should follow the lead of the President" in the Asian conflict.

The White House called the Michigan governor's words "a strong endorsement of the administration's position on Vietnam."

There was Romney criticism,

A Highway Patrol dispatcher there said his desk "which weighs at least 500 pounds was bouncing around like a toy for a few seconds."

An east side Columbus woman said "my house shook different than ever before." A sheriff's deputy in Fairfield County, south of here, said the vibrations were accompanied by a loud explosion. "I thought the back end of the jail blew out," he was quoted as saying.

Many other persons said they heard a loud noise and most passed it off as a sonic boom. But officials at Lockbourne Air Force Base just south of here said there were no supersonic planes in the area at the time.

Police agencies and news media received many calls inquiring as to the tremors. The Columbus Dispatch received about 20 calls. Police said they had "at least that many."

Earthquakes are extremely rare in Ohio, said to be based on cambrian rock with not much sediment — and most of that limestone.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two big, tough labor disputes threatening to tie up most of the nation's trucks and trains kept federal officials working overtime today.

The trucking industry said it would shut down 1,500 major firms today if the Teamsters Union doesn't halt a rash of hit-and-run strikes that has brought national contract negotiations to the brink of a blowup.

Meanwhile, Undersecretary of Labor James J. Reynolds wrestled with a scheduled six-day strike against 138 railroads next Wednesday.

Unless averted, the two wage disputes covering 450,000 trucking workers and 135,000 railroaders could plunge the nation into its worst transportation crisis.

Chief federal mediator William E. Simkin reported progress but still "serious problems" in trucking talks after a week of almost round-the-clock bargaining and called for negotiations to resume at 2 p.m. today.

firms that carry 65 per cent of the nation's truck freight, said its board of directors would meet at 10 a.m. to decide whether to carry out its lockout threat against 250,000 Teamsters employees.

"TEI has temporarily delayed its decision to commence a defensive shutdown of the operations of its 1,500 trucking companies," the industry organization said.

But it warned the Teamsters Union that "unless it calls a complete halt to all strikes against member companies, TEI will exercise its right to take defensive action against these strikes and shut down its operations."

TEI said more than 30 strikes had occurred in major cities including Atlanta, Ga.; Birmingham, Ala.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Dallas and Houston, Tex.; Oklahoma City; Memphis, Tenn.; Chicago; Cincinnati;

Winston-Salem, N.C., and Fort Smith, Ark. It said some were continuing early today.

One of the firms struck briefly Friday was Western Gillette Inc. of Houston, headed by Donald Cantlay, the industry's chief negotiator in the talks here.

Frank Fitzsimmons, Teamsters' general vice president, said the union would never call a nationwide strike and that if there were a major shutdown, the industry will be to blame.

Fitzsimmons, who took over last month from imprisoned Teamsters President James R. Hoffa, is running his first national contract talks. He celebrated his 59th birthday Friday in an atmosphere of crisis bargaining.

Another Teamsters official advised, "Shut 'em down and get it over with," but Fitzsimmons said, "The talks haven't broken off."

The Teamsters Union which has announced no official strike call, reportedly was ordering its men back to work in cities where walkouts interrupted work.

TEI stuck with its wage offer of 44 cents per hour over a three-year contract, including an 11-cent cost-of-living adjustment, plus what it said was 12 cents in fringe benefits and 6 cents in additional cost-of-living payments.

An industry spokesman said this 62-cent package offer compared with Teamsters demands totaling 90 cents per hour.

Although the threatened railroad strike isn't as imminent, federal officials reportedly viewed it as grave, especially in view of the trucking dispute.

Veep Hopes To Relax

Belgians Plan 'To Listen' During Humphrey's Visit

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — After a Paris visit marred by anti-American demonstrations, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey expects a relaxed weekend of official talks in which the Belgians say they'll mostly listen.

Few problems are pending between the United States and Belgium. There may be more issues raised in Humphrey's talk with Walter Hallstein, president of the European Common Market Executive, than in his session with Belgian Foreign Minister Pierre Harmel.

In a prepared statement before leaving Paris, Humphrey thanked President Charles de Gaulle and other French officials "for the frank and fruitful discussions in which I participated."

"We leave Paris impressed with the strength and well-being of the French nation, and with a deep feeling that our common heritage and values will bind us together now and in the future," Humphrey said.

The vice president returns home Monday after a 15-day tour of European capitals during which he was the target of hecklers in Britain, Italy and Germany, as well as France.

On Humphrey's schedule today was luncheon with King Baudouin at Laeken Palace, followed by talks with Harmel and other officials and a reception in the Senate building.

A Belgian government source said Humphrey's visit was an American initiative and "it will thus be up to us to listen to what the vice president came to tell us."

Harmel was expected to bring up two favorite subjects: Reform of the North Atlantic alliance and rapprochement between East and West Europe.

Hallstein was to be Humphrey's host at supper tonight. Both men want the Kennedy Round of trade talks in Geneva successfully concluded and both are interested in a nuclear non-proliferation treaty.

Money problems between the United States and Europe may also come up.

Humphrey's talks with De Gaulle Friday were beclouded by chanting demonstrators, fighting between police and protesters, a burned American flag torn from the American cathedral and a banner hung from the first floor of the Eiffel Tower, saying, "Humphrey go home."

Anti-Vietnam war demonstrators, spurred by the Communist party newspaper, threw (Turn to HUMPHREY, Pg. 11)

South Seeks 'Birthday' Cease-Fire

Vietnamese Would Discuss May 23 'Truce' With Cong

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam proposed today a one-day cease-fire despite the threat of expanded warfare in the demilitarized zone, and offered to discuss with North Vietnam the possibility of a longer truce.

With concurrence of the United States and her other allies, South Vietnam proposed a 24-hour truce for May 23, the birthday of Buddha. It proposed meeting representatives of North Vietnam in the demilitarized zone at the Ben Hai Bridge to consider a possible extension.

Expanded fighting in the zone has been a matter of mounting concern.

The U.S. mission disclosed that six nurses were evacuated from Hue, biggest city near the zone, and that preparations have been made to evacuate about 50 other American civilians in the two northernmost provinces of South Vietnam.

The North Vietnamese are known to have some 35,000 soldiers in the immediate area of the demilitarized zone.

Some U.S. officials occasionally have voiced fears of a direct Red invasion across the DMZ. Tension began to mount when the North Vietnamese attacked the South Vietnamese civil police post Wednesday and followed the next day with a wave of pre-dawn attacks on (Turn to TRUCE, Page 11)

Woman 'Fair' In Stabbing At Lisbon Home

LISBON — Mrs. Kathryn Clunk, 51, of 534 N. Jefferson St., is in fair condition at Salem City Hospital with a puncture wound in the stomach.

Police charged her husband, Howard, 51, with assault with a dangerous weapon, a knife, Friday night at home.

A laborer for the Columbiana County Highway Department, Clunk is in the County Jail. He will be arraigned in Southwest Court, but a date has not been set nor bond fixed.

Officer John Vokovich said he received a call about 9:15 from Dr. Reinhold Rankis, Lisbon physician, to go to the Clunk residence.

The officer said he found Mrs. Clunk sitting on a davenport, clutching the lower left side of her abdomen with both hands. He said he could see her dress was stained with blood. Clunk was standing near by.

Dr. Rankis arrived, examined the wound and told Mrs. Clunk she would have to go to the hospital. Vokovich called the volunteer fire department ambulance and, at the woman's request, permitted Clunk to accompany her.

Vokovich said Clunk retired to another room after he arrived (Turn to WOMAN, Page 11)

'Offense' Backed As Best Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's European allies apparently back Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's contention that the best defense against nuclear attack is a potent missile offense.

Defense ministers of seven North Atlantic Treaty Organization members were reported to have shown little interest in antiballistic missile defense systems during the two-day meeting of NATO's nuclear planning group which ended Friday.

Instead, sources said, they urged expansion of the U.S. missile striking force. McNamara is said to have told them the United States has five to six times as many deliverable nuclear warheads as the Soviet Union.

Some members of Congress are urging that the United States develop and deploy an antiballistic missile — ABM — defense system to shield key American cities. Their interest is spurred by deployment of more effective offensive missiles.

McNamara has said deploying ABMs would only add fuel to the offensive arms race by requiring the United States and Soviet Union to develop more sophisticated offensive weapons.

At President Johnson's request, the Soviets recently opened negotiations with U.S. envoys aimed at forestalling an ABM race between the two nations.

But the Soviets are believed to have insisted that the talks include limiting offensive nuclear weaponry as well.

McNamara reportedly told other NATO defense chiefs that the United States now possesses 1,446 intercontinental ballistic missiles, both land and sea based, plus nuclear weapons that can be delivered by 600 long-range bombers.

He is said to have estimated Soviet nuclear strength at 470 ICBMs and 155 intercontinental bombers.

McNamara is to confer privately today with Defense Minister Gerhard Schroeder of West Germany. Their talks are expected to center around financing of U.S. troops stationed in Germany.

As the planning group wound up its meeting, Republicans accused the Johnson administration of neglecting NATO and said the nation faces an "overwhelming crisis" with its European allies.

Officer Cites Man In Crash

A Lisbon district man was cited by police after a two-car traffic mishap in East End Friday afternoon.

The collision on Pennsylvania Ave. at Mulberry St. at 1:48 p.m. involved a 1960 model sedan driven by John R. Canne, 47, of 143 Thompson Ave. and a 1958 sedan operated by Denver D. Teeters, 24, of Lisbon R. D. 1. Teeters was cited by Patrolman Jerry F. Adkins on a charge of failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Canne told police a dog crossed the street in front of him and he slowed almost to a stop to avoid striking the animal. Teeters reported he saw Canne's car slowing and applied his brakes and veered to the left in attempting to avoid a collision. The mishap damaged the rear of Canne's car, but Teeters' auto was undamaged, police said.

A 40-year-old Hancock County man escaped injury in collision between his motorcycle and an auto Friday at 12:05 p.m. on Broadway 20 feet south of E. 5th St., police reported.

The mishap involved a motorcycle operated by James F. Goppert of Chester R. D. 1 and a 1962 four-door sedan driven by John Robert Jackson, 66, of R. D. 2.

Goppert reported he was making a left turn off E. 5th St. onto Broadway when Jackson backed from a diagonal parking spot, striking the motorcycle. Jackson reported he looked for oncoming traffic before backing, but did not see the motorcycle until the impact. The crash damaged a saddlebag on the motorcycle, but the auto was undamaged, officers said. Patrolman K. J. Montgomery investigated.

Plans Pushed On American Summit Talks

By CLAUDE ERBSEN

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — Foreign ministers begin work today on a final draft of inter-American social and economic development plans, in preparation for next week's summit meeting of 19 American nations.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who arrived Friday, said the three-day meeting starting Wednesday will help set the course of inter-American development for decades.

The draft declaration — which calls for a Latin-American common market by 1985, curbing of military expenditures and development of health and educational programs — will be the basis of discussion among President Johnson and the other chief executives.

Biggest question before the conference, an official U.S. source said, will be how Latin Americans can sell their products in U.S. markets. The source noted a fairly sudden and surprising switch by Latin-American nations from preoccupation with aid to concern about trade.

Legislators Win 'Hands Down' In Ruling On Time

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A Richmond judge has ruled in effect that time can be what a state legislature says it is.

Every legislative session, Virginia lawmakers run into a last-night jam and stop the House and Senate clocks at midnight so the official record will show their session adjourned before the legal limit passed.

In the last-night rush of March 12, 1966, the legislature stopped its clocks at midnight. Between then and actual adjournment, at 4:13 a.m. March 13, several laws were enacted.

The validity of one of them was questioned Friday before Traffic Court Judge James A. Baber III. Attorneys for an accused drunken driver said the law wasn't constitutional because stopping the clocks didn't stop time and hence the legislative session was over before the law was passed.

Judge Baber rejected the contention by the attorneys — one of whom, Junie L. Bradshaw, is a member of the House of Delegates and was there when the clocks were stopped.

Two Drivers Injured In Mishap At LaCroft

Two drivers were shaken and bruised in a collision in the LaCroft area Friday about noon, the Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

Officers said the city woman was headed east on 6th Ave. and the other north on Homestead Ave. The mishap is still under investigation.

Freight 'Hitchhiker' Suffers Leg Injuries

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — An 8-year-old Bay City boy lost his left foot and suffered severe damage to his right leg Friday when he tried to hitch a ride on a passing freight train.

Martin Obermiller told police his grip slipped and he fell to the tracks. Police at first reported the lad lost both feet, but a Bay City Mercy Hospital supervisor said there was a chance doctors could save his lower right leg which nearly was severed in the accident.

Of the 3,700 miles of coast line along the Atlantic and Gulf Coast, 105 miles are available for public use.

Various Events Are Planned By Historical Unit

LISBON — The Columbiana County Historical Association will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Lisbon Village hall, with President John C. Simonds of Leetonia R.D. 1 in charge.

In a recent letter given wide distribution, Simonds appealed to area residents to help "stimulate and expand a better knowledge and appreciation of local heritage in the county and in the dedication and preservation of our many wonderful landmarks."

He says the association's tentative program for 1967 has something of interest for everyone — the erection of markers on the Boquet trail and camp sites, the restoration and preservation of many stone arch bridges and reconstruction of the old iron furnace at Camp McKinley near Lisbon.

Simonds says the unit is planning an annual observance to be called "Columbiana County Heritage Week" featuring displays of books and articles by libraries, schools and businesses and various programs.

A series of tours is in the planning stage, as is the distribution of maps and pamphlets on area history. A county history essay contest is being considered for the schools. Simonds said the association hopes to present a countywide historical pageant.

Meetings are held the second Wednesday of each month at Village Hall. The public is invited.

'Supermen' Called Possible Under 'Test Tube' Proposal

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — The ability of mankind to create a race of supermen in the future is technically feasible, say two scientists at Duke University.

The prospect of controlling the quality of human life was put forth by Dr. Arthur C. Christakos, a gynecologist, and Dr. Walter R. Guild, professor of biophysics, in a paper to be read today during a seminar exploring the implications of genetic manipulation.

The two scientists said the possibility of creating supermen arises from the work of H.J. Muller, a geneticist who has proposed that sperm banks be used to store desirable genes from a select group of so-called great men.

"His suggestion is technically feasible," Dr. Christakos said, "since we have been able to achieve pregnancies using donated sperm in numerous women in the past several decades."

The seminar, being held at the Duke University Medical Center in Durham, has brought together eminent figures in medicine, law, religion and government to consider the legal, moral and ethical problems of controlling human development.

The technical ability to achieve fertilization in test tubes is a near reality, Dr. Christakos said, and he estimated more than 10,000 artificially inseminated conceptions occur each year in the United States.

The moral and ethical problems of controlling human quality was brought up by Dr. Guild. "Who plays God?" he asked.

"Who will decide whose human eggs will be used for fertilization? Who will decide what great men to select?"

Plans Pushed On American Summit Talks

By CLAUDE ERBSEN

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — Foreign ministers begin work today on a final draft of inter-American social and economic development plans, in preparation for next week's summit meeting of 19 American nations.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who arrived Friday, said the three-day meeting starting Wednesday will help set the course of inter-American development for decades.

The draft declaration — which calls for a Latin-American common market by 1985, curbing of military expenditures and development of health and educational programs — will be the basis of discussion among President Johnson and the other chief executives.

Biggest question before the conference, an official U.S. source said, will be how Latin Americans can sell their products in U.S. markets. The source noted a fairly sudden and surprising switch by Latin American nations from preoccupation with aid to concern about trade.

Legislators Win 'Hands Down' In Ruling On Time

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A Richmond judge has ruled in effect that time can be what a state legislature says it is.

Every legislative session, Virginia lawmakers run into a last-night jam and stop the House and Senate clocks at midnight so the official record will show their session adjourned before the legal limit passed.

In the last-night rush of March 12, 1966, the legislature stopped its clocks at midnight. Between then and actual adjournment, at 4:13 a.m. March 13, several laws were enacted.

The validity of one of them was questioned Friday before Traffic Court Judge James A. Baber III. Attorneys for an accused drunken driver said the law wasn't constitutional because stopping the clocks didn't stop time and hence the legislative session was over before the law was passed.

Judge Baber rejected the contention by the attorneys — one of whom, Junie L. Bradshaw, is a member of the House of Delegates and was there when the clocks were stopped.

Two Drivers Injured In Mishap At LaCroft

Officers said the city woman was headed east on 6th Ave. and the other north on Homestead Ave. The mishap is still under investigation.

Various Events Are Planned By Historical Unit

LISBON — The Columbiana County Historical Association will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Lisbon Village hall, with President John C. Simonds of Leetonia R.D. 1 in charge.

In a recent letter given wide distribution, Simonds appealed to area residents to help "stimulate and expand a better knowledge and appreciation of local heritage in the county and in the dedication and preservation of our many wonderful landmarks."

He says the association's tentative program for 1967 has something of interest for everyone — the erection of markers on the Boquet trail and camp sites, the restoration and preservation of many stone arch bridges and reconstruction of the old iron furnace at Camp McKinley near Lisbon.

Simonds says the unit is planning an annual observance to be called "Columbiana County Heritage Week" featuring displays of books and articles by libraries, schools and businesses and various programs.

A series of tours is in the planning stage, as is the distribution of maps and pamphlets on area history. A county history essay contest is being considered for the schools. Simonds said the association hopes to present a countywide historical pageant.

Meetings are held the second Wednesday of each month at Village Hall. The public is invited.

At Senior Play Here

Cast Provides New Twist To A Broadway Favorite

By CLARA HALL

A new twist was added to one of the old Broadway favorites, "My Sister Eileen," when the East Liverpool High School Department of Speech and Drama presented the annual senior play before a full house Friday night at Westgate School.

Just about everyone in the cast got a round of applause at various moments during the comedy, which took place in a simple basement setting of a Greenwich Village studio.

THE LIGHTING and sound effects crews were kept quite busy with the continual blasting of a subway project and the constant interference created by the open and barred picture window.

Barbara Rohrer never lost a laugh as she portrayed the serious-minded, journalistically-inspired sister trying to make her mark in the city.

Attractive Cathy Duffy, playing the title role, was a perfect foil for all the implications aroused by the steady stream of visitors looking for the former tenant, played by siren-like Beth Thornton.

The funniest male roles were handled perfectly by Tom Ash, as the eccentric landlord, with a painting hobby on the side, and Tom Arcuragi, as a former strongman who appears most of the time in swim trunks.

Five members of the Brazilian Navy — Jim Patrick, John Hamilton, Ernie Grogg, Dave Tobin and Bill Pickin — rollicked through a couple of scenes providing a Grand Central Station atmosphere with their actions and Portuguese lingo.

Handling the leading roles as the handsome "suits" were Don Edgar, Jerry Wood, Gregg Manning and Bob Fannin.

Supporting roles were enacted very well by Phil Hoschar, as the janitor; Bill Pickin, the patrolman; Susan Greenwood, the girl friend; Mary Cartwright, her mother; Jim Cooper, father of the sisters; Linda Crooks, the street vendor and prospective tenant; Phil Snyder, the consul; Terry Barker, the doorman, and Hamilton and Patrick, as a pair of drunks.

James R. Martin, teacher of English, and H. Keith Langdon, speech-arts instructor, directed the three-act play.

Responsible for the stage setting were Joe Arcuragi, chairman, Keith Myler, John Smith, Jim Gooding, Wood, Barker and Pickin.

Makeup was handled by Pat McKinnon, chairman, Patty Skaleski, Judy Sillince, Ruth Boston, Gloria Jones, Brenda Owens and Sue Conley.

Madelyn Olsen, chairman, Candy Burcham, Bridget Tobin and Suzy Jackson arranged the costuming.

THE LIGHTING and sound committee was comprised of Arl Green, chairman, Wayne Merriam, Gary Oakes, Ken Morris and Mac Ogilvie.

Penny Rogers, chairman, Brenda Huygie and Sara Moraca handled the tickets.

The properties committee consisted of Marilyn Manley, chairman, Nancy Beatty, Blaine Barrett, Becky McIntosh, Linda Sticker, Jill Myers, Anne McDowell, Debbie Bryan, Kathy Betteridge, Nancy Sturgeon and Nancy Hall.

Jane Snow and George Manning were co-chairmen for publicity, assisted by Elaine Smith, John Hamilton, Debbie Gregg, Rhonda Hayes, Sally McFarland, Linda Warrick and Ron Kapp.

Donald Adams directed the stage band in selections preceding the performance and between the acts.

The comedy will be repeated tonight, with curtain time 7:45.

Efforts Fail To Halt Visit Of Wallaces

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Mayor Joseph M. Barr and a civil rights group have failed in an effort to block a scheduled visit by Alabama Gov. Lurleen Wallace and her husband, George.

A spokesman for the mayor's office disclosed Friday that Barr asked the Amen Corner to cancel the visit of the Wallaces, but the appeal failed. Barr said he would not attend.

The Amen Corner, a group of businessmen and politicians, is sponsoring the April 27 appearance of the Wallaces and Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.

Matthew Moore, head of the United Negro Protest Committee, said his group plans to demonstrate.

The Rev. Donald McIlvane of St. Richard's Roman Catholic Church, a board member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, called the Amen Corner's action "disgraceful."

"If they want to invite a Southern Democrat we can suggest a half-dozen who have never voted for a civil rights bill but would be acceptable," he said. "At least, they are not racists."

At Senior Play Here

Cast Provides New Twist To A Broadway Favorite

By CLARA HALL

A new twist was added to one of the old Broadway favorites, "My Sister Eileen," when the East Liverpool High School Department of Speech and Drama presented the annual senior play before a full house Friday night at Westgate School.

Just about everyone in the cast got a round of applause at various moments during the comedy, which took place in a simple basement setting of a Greenwich Village studio.

THE LIGHTING and sound effects crews were kept quite busy with the continual blasting of a subway project and the constant interference created by the open and barred picture window.

Barbara Rohrer never lost a laugh as she portrayed the serious-minded, journalistically-inspired sister trying to make her mark in the city.

Attractive Cathy Duffy, playing the title role, was a perfect foil for all the implications aroused by the steady stream of visitors looking for the former tenant, played by siren-like Beth Thornton.

The funniest male roles were handled perfectly by Tom Ash, as the eccentric landlord, with a painting hobby on the side, and Tom Arcuragi, as a former strongman who appears most of the time in swim trunks.

Five members of the Brazilian Navy — Jim Patrick, John Hamilton, Ernie Gregg, Dave Tobin and Bill Pickin — dolled through a couple of scenes providing a Grand Central Station atmosphere with their actions and Portuguese lingo.

Handling the leading roles as the handsome "suitors" were Don Edgar, Jerry Wood, Gregg Manning and Bob Fannin.

Supporting roles were enacted very well by Phil Hoschar,

as the janitor; Bill Pickin, the patrolman; Susan Greenwood, the girl friend; Mary Cartwright, her mother; Jim Cooper, father of the sisters; Linda Crooks, the street vendor and prospective tenant; Phil Snyder, the consul; Terry Barker, the doorman, and Hamilton and Patrick, as a pair of drunks.

James R. Martin, teacher of English, and H. Keith Langdon, speech-arts instructor, directed the three-act play.

Responsible for the stage setting were Joe Arcuragi, chairman, Keith Myler, John Smith, Jim Gooding, Wood, Barker and Pickin.

Makeup was handled by Pat McKinnon, chairman, Patty Skaleski, Judy Sillince, Ruth Boston, Gloria Jones, Brenda Owens and Sue Conley.

Madelyn Ovsen, chairman, Candy Burcham, Bridget Tobin and Suzy Jackson arranged the costumes.

THE LIGHTING and sound committee was comprised of Art Green, chairman, Wayne Merriman, Gary Oakes, Ken Morris and Mac Ogilvie.

Penny Rogers, chairman, Brenda Huyghe and Sara Moraca handled the tickets.

The properties committee consisted of Marilyn Manley, chairman, Nancy Beatty, Blaine Barrett, Becky McIntosh, Linda Sticker, Jill Myers, Anne McDowell, Debbie Bryan, Kathy Betteridge, Nancy Sturgeon and Nancy Hall.

Jane Snow and George Manning were co-chairmen for publicity, assisted by Elaine Smith, John Hamilton, Debbie Gregg, Rhonda Hayes, Sally McFarland, Linda Warrick and Ron Kapp.

Donald Adams directed the stage band in selections preceding the performance and between the acts.

The comedy will be repeated tonight, with curtain time 7:45.

3 Inspectors Suspended In Pittsburgh Police Quiz

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Three Pittsburgh police inspectors charged with conspiracy to extort have been suspended indefinitely.

Safety Director David Craig ordered the suspensions of inspectors William J. Walsh, Vincent W. Dixon and Ignatius Borkowski Friday.

The three were charged by Allegheny County Dist. Atty. Robert W. Duggan Thursday with taking part in protection payoffs for Pittsburgh numbers racketeers.

Three police lieutenants also were charged, but Craig said they couldn't be suspended until 10 days before a trial board hearing, according to state law.

Craig said any trial board proceedings depend on testimony by former policemen and admitted collector of numbers payoffs Clarence Cooper.

Craig said the hearing cannot be scheduled until Cooper agrees to return to Pittsburgh from his Fort Lauderdale, Fla., home.

Duggan said most of the information contained in the charges filed against eight men came from Cooper.

Lts. Thomas P. Flavin, James V. McTague and William J. Jordan and former patrolman Melvin R. MacDonald also were charged with conspiracy to extort.

Former assistant police superintendent Lawrence J. Mainey was charged with conspiracy to extort, bribery and extortion.

The eight face an April 15 hearing.

WE COULD SAY LOTS OF NICE THINGS ABOUT OUR CHECKING ACCOUNTS

BUT OTHERS DO IT BETTER

Just ask any of our checking account customers how convenient it is to pay a bill by check, how it is a real time and step saver, how it is a handy and compact record of expenditures, and how it is safe to mail.

So . . . if our checking accounts are so nice, they must be pretty expensive, right?

Wrong. A Potters Bank Check usually costs less than a money order, and more than pays for itself in what you save on gasoline, bus fares, babysitters and shoe leather. It only takes a few minutes to open an account.

The Washington 'Merry-Go-Round'

After years of litigation, Robert G. (Bobby) Baker has been sentenced.

Originally charged with nine counts carrying penalties of up to 48 years in jail and $47,000 in fines, he finally was convicted on seven counts of income tax evasion, theft and conspiracy.

His sentence: one to three years on each count, running concurrently.

Before sentence was pronounced, the judge asked Baker if he had anything to say.

Baker replied, "I have nothing, your honor."

This utterance has our vote as the understatement of the year.

In five years as Senate Democratic secretary, Baker built a business and financial empire that included motels, restaurants, considerable real estate, a $25,000 home, a vending machine company and a major interest in a profitable mortgage insurance company.

In 1963, he estimated his net worth in excess of $2.5 million.

Baker, of course, meant he had nothing to say, before the court, but plenty could have been said.

A July 8 report by the Senate Rules Committee said Baker was "guilty of many gross improprieties" while serving the Senate.

Allegations, never subsequently proved, linked Baker with call girls and kickbacks. Committee testimony associated Baker with gambling interests in Las Vegas, Miami and the Dominican Republic.

Most of the charges didn't stick. Baker's activities were morally wrong, but not illegal.

He was a wheeling-dealing operator; and Washington congressional circles is where the action is. Baker took advantage of the sunny season to make a bundle of hay.

The Baker case is not finished. His attorneys are planning to appeal the conviction.

But there is no appeal open to the Washington environment that permits under-the-table manipulations.

So long as it is permitted to exist there will be Bobby Baker cases.

Where The Money Is

The Rhodes administration is sponsoring another proposal that will give its political opposition an excuse to quiver with holy indignation.

This newest proposal, introduced by Sen. Walter Powell R-Butler, would give cities and counties clear authority to issue self-retiring revenue bonds for industrial purposes.

They have authority now, but it isn't clear.

Purpose of the bonds would be to provide easy capital for enterprise that wanted to expand in a locality, or transfer its location. As in all other programs of the Rhodes administration, it would be designed to create more employment opportunities for Ohioans, more productive enterprise for Ohio, more tax revenue for Ohio communities.

The self-retiring revenue bonds would be serviced with the proceeds from private enterprise. There would be no public revenue used in servicing the securities.

The advantage this would hold over community improvement corporations, which were the Rhodes administration's previous idea for raising quick capital for Ohio enterprise, is that the public bonds would be exempt from federal taxation.

This would put them where the eager money is in the current money market.

Tax-exempt bonds are in demand.

Capital is in demand.

Ohio needs the jobs.

It gives political opposition fits to have it put this way day in and day out, but it is vastly reassuring to most Ohioans to know their government is leaving no stone unturned to give them more chances to earn a living.

Every state in the Union wishes it had the same attitude in its top administration — administrators trying to create wealth, not just spend it.

Full Of Thought

Everyone who knows a dog on a first-name basis has wondered what his haired-over friend is thinking about.

Only ignorant geeks who don't know any dogs of this basis are guilty of saying there is nothing to think about because dogs don't think, only react according to instinct.

Of course dogs think.

They also react. Reaction does not preclude thought. People react, also think. Dogs likewise.

The Twillery dogs think. Muttie, for example, is a deep-dish thinker. He thinks about the weather. When he knows it is cold outside, he thinks it would be a fine idea to hide before thrust outside for a midnight romp. Romp scamp, thinks Muttie — and refuses to come out of hiding.

Muttie's predecessor at the bottom of the Twillery totem pole was offered a chance to run for Congress one year and turned it down because she thought the work would be confining. "I'd rather be free to chase rabbits and catch mice," she explained.

We once saw her dig out a rabbit and bring it to her hero, the Irish setter. She laid it gently at his feet, then backed off and sat down, knowing the way to a dog's heart is through his alimentary canal. The setter was overwhelmed.

We often wonder if Jason, the golden retriever from New Hampshire who is on an extended visit, wonders about his dislocation and the whereabouts of his rightful master, mistress and youth' champion. Does he remember?

Of course he remembers. The mere mention of his native habitat makes him dolorous. He will go to his treasure chest and get out his keepsakes, to feed his nostalgia.

We have seen dogs think their way through itineraries involving closed gates, wriggles-through holes under fences, doors that could be pushed open and barriers that could be jumped over. Some think better than others, the same as humans.

But mostly what the Twillery dogs think is that men are more to be pitied than censured for their oddities of behavior, such as toil.

Dogs toil not, neither do their heads spin.

One recent day, the head of the house was digging up a dead bush. It was hard work, made harder by realization that he was ringed in by three observant dogs, lying with their heads between their front paws, studying him.

This happens all the time — this observation, psychiatry style. More than once the head of the house has thrown down the tools of toil in disgust and walked away, muttering, "Unmentionable sons of dogs, staring at me as if there was something pitiable about leading a human's life. Maybe there is."

Maybe there is.

It's something to think about when you see one dog curled up in a corner of the couch, another stretched out full length on the stair landing and another dozing off in a shower stall dreaming of cool, cool water.

Dogs don't think? Who leads a dog's life in this Republic? People.

Letter From Max

Dear Truman Twill:

Did you ever have a relatively insignificant experience which loomed large in your mind at the time and you remembered for the rest of your life?

In the Great Depression of the 1930s, there were not many freighters operating on the Great Lakes, because business was so bad.

On this particular freighter, the Back Bay, they changed captains every few trips. Scuttlebutt among the crew had it that the company had all these idle captains sitting at home and wanted to give each of them a little work.

Another theory was that the boat wasn't making any money and the company was trying to find a captain who could make the boat profitable.

For a large part of one summer, the Back Bay hauled sheet steel in big heavy bundles from the Cuyahoga River in Cleveland to Ford's River Rouge plant at Detroit.

The dock in Cleveland was not very far up the Cuyahoga River, but it was far enough so the boat could not back down the river astern by itself but had to get a tug at $25 or $50 an hour to help it.

So here comes this new captain aboard in white shirt and tie, hands on hips, feet spread apart and barking orders.

"We don't need a tug," he said. "We'll go up to the turning basin, turn around and go out under our own power."

Well, Twill, the Cuyahoga River is crookeder than a Mafia member and has more bridges than a dentist.

Up the river we go hell-bent, skidding around the hairpin turns and whistling "the bridges open."

Reversing the boat's direction in the turning basin wouldn't have been difficult with the aid of a tug, but it took a lot of seesawing just using the boat's propeller.

The captain's exuberance caused the prow to bump a dock in the turning basin, and he stormed down to the engine room where a bewildered first engineer was at the engine controls.

"This ship doesn't budge until the chief engineer takes over down here," stormed the captain.

The chief engineer was summoned and assumed the ticklish job of responding to the split-second forward-and-astern signals from the bridge.

On the way back down the river, everything went as smoothly as could be expected under the circumstances. You'd have thought we were going to a fire.

At one of the last sharp bends, the first mate was standing aft to signal the skipper how close the stern was coming to the wooden pilings at the river's edge.

The stern nudged heavily but gently into a stand of pilings, which were there to absorb just such blows.

The mate, in a rare moment of condescension, turned to a lowly crew member standing nearby, smiled and said, "I guess we'll have to fire the captain."

That is the kind of thing a lowly crew member remembers all the rest of his life.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

A Nosy Bunch

Lions, penguins and gorillas share a common trait—enormous curiosity.

Explorers arriving in Antarctica are often greeted by inquisitive Adelle penguins, the National Geographic Society says. The birds take a lively interest in the men and their machines.

Lions also have a lot of what killed the smaller cat. They hunt food only at night, but curiosity sours them to daytime activity, too.

British anthropologist Louis S. B. Leakey says lions often come into his camps in East Africa during the day to see what is going on.

Curiosity reaches its apex among monkeys, the great apes, and men. When two University of Wisconsin scientists went to the Belgian Congo to observe gorillas, they found the gorillas observed them back with intense interest.

A mother gorilla clambered up a tree to get a better look at the primates from the United States.

A Freedom That's Lost In The Shuffle

Two Good Years For Ray Bliss

By Raymond Moley

Will H. Hays, while he was Republican chairman, coined the phrase, "Elect, not select."

He meant the duty of a party chairman was to stay neutral among aspirants for nomination. But once a nominee was selected, the chairman should provide the machinery to elect him.

On April 1, 1965, Ray Bliss was elected to the office held by Hays from 1917 to 1922. Bliss confronted the job of uniting a divided party.

That Republican wounds of 1964 are healing now is in no small degree due to the patient ministrations of Bliss. He certainly helped to bring about the GOP revival in 1966.

It took a while for the political correspondents to understand him. They had been accustomed to dealing with GOP chairmen who held the job on a part-time basis and did more talking than working. Len Hall, for instance, won his way with correspondents by his jovial manner.

Bliss was not talkative, and in his few public appearances he spoke only of the "nuts and bolts" of organization. He is measurably friendly and accessible, but he slaps very few backs.

When he took over the overgrown staff left by his predecessors, he thoroughly reorganized it. Several of the displaced bureaucrats peddled their grievances abroad.

Bliss runs a political headquarters in the manner of an efficient business executive. He has been in politics for more than 30 years.

As state Republican chairman in Ohio he created a small, but highly effective staff. His businesslike methods won him the support of businessmen and from them he received plenty of money.

A succession of victories at the polls won him prestige beyond his own state. Only once was there a catastrophic defeat. That was in 1958 when the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, despite the advice of Bliss and of the then Sen. Bricker, put a right-to-work amendment on the ballot.

After that disaster, Bliss began a comprehensive party reorganization that has returned Ohio to its traditional status as a solid Republican state.

While Bliss is no ideologue, he has recognized that the Republican party has great need of a series of principles and issues to which all factions of the GOP can rally.

He has been instrumental in creating the Republican Coordinating Committee, composed of five former presidential nominees, five senators, seven leaders in the House, five governors, five vice-chairmen of the National Committee, the president of the State Republican Legislative Association and Bliss himself as chairman.

From time to time this group meets and reaches agreement on the issues facing the nation.

As a result, we may expect that when the 1968 GOP convention meets there will be little or no conflict over a platform.

Bliss realizes the major function of a party is to mobilize and educate workers. He has encouraged this by the holding of seminars and workshops at the grass roots.

Such efforts do not get the headlines that presidential aspirants receive. But when the great issue is joined in 1968 the party will have ready for action a host of trained precinct, county and state workers.

Despite the concentration of the press on issues, political success depends upon organization. Issues are the byproduct of a successful party. Attractive candidates are desirable.

But organization gets out the vote. And the vote is the payoff.

I have gotten over the original impact of the fire at the Wesco plant last Monday, and have put together some of my thoughts.

First, I must express my thanks and admiration for the job done by the Fire Department, police and sheriff's department and all those who had a hand in assisting them. I was unable to be brought to the scene until after 10 o'clock when the inferno was raging at its height. I had visions of the entire plant being burned to the ground. Mrs. Weis and I both became ill at the sight and the prospect, and returned home. The next morning I was surprised to see that only the three-story building and the adjoining one-story building were involved. The fire department deserves congratulations for a job well done.

How the police and fire department determined the cause of the conflagration, and the children who caused it, I cannot imagine. But believe me, it has taken a load off my mind. I had forbidden smoking in that section of the plant, but thought possibly that orders had been disobeyed. Maybe one of the men had tossed a partially-burned cigarette into a rubbish barrel. And too I wondered what people would think. In case of a large fire, the owners are always suspect. I am thankful for that detective work.

I must express my appreciation to our own employees. They were "Johnnie on the spot." They removed the trucks out of the building and made themselves available for anything that they might be able to do to assist. I am usually not very articulate, but I think they know how much I appreciate their loyalty during my long illness. I usually express my commendation in other ways, not necessarily financially, but I want them to know that I hold their cooperation highly.

And I want to extend thanks to all those who have voiced their sympathy, who were interested in our future, and a desire to be of assistance to ensure our continued operation in the community.

Votes Should Not Be Bought

Congress is at last face to face with the fact rich men can win public office by utilizing their own funds and persons who have no fortunes are tempted to depend upon big contributions from wealthy individuals, many of whom have axes to grind.

There are strange inconsistencies in the situation.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., is being criticized because he used money raised at testimonial dinners to help him pay personal expenses incurred because of the cost of maintaining political strength between campaigns. If he had been a wealthy man, he would have had no problem.

The whole emphasis is on how to shift the burden of campaign expenses from the backs of individuals to the government.

When Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., proposed last year a bill that would permit citizens to indicate a willingness to have some of their income-tax payments used by the federal government for campaign expenses of either of the two national parties, Congress approved. But already there are many signs of a change of heart.

The new law was obviously the result of haste. It opened up more loopholes than it closed.

Curiously enough, President Johnson is supporting retention of the existing measure.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., on the other hand, a rich man himself, wants to see the law repealed and a new law passed which would provide a public subsidy for candidates during political campaigns. Congress is considering revision of the measure.

The truth is both sides are up against a simple fact.

Elections are, in effect, being bought not only on the national but on the state and local levels. Political committees are formed which circumvent existing limitations on campaign expenditures.

The whole thing has been in a mess for several years, and if the U.S. Senate takes a "holier than thou" attitude in the case of Sen. Dodd, it will open itself to criticism unless it also cleans up the entire system of financing political campaigns.

Money is more important in politics nowadays than it ever has been. Publicity cannot be obtained without heavy expenses for paid advertising or paid radio and television programs. Members of rich families have available huge financial resources used to help elect their relatives.

The answer is not to be found in preventing rich men from holding office. On the contrary, many of them are far more independent-minded, because they are free from financial pressures, than are others who feel they must curry favor with heavy contributors to their campaigns.

Many capable men without financial means cannot get the support they need to run for office, though they would be successful in the service of government.

Out of many suggestions being made, one idea widely supported is that the government should grant a tax deduction, or credit, to individuals who contribute to political campaigns of candidates for office in federal, state or local governments.

This is regarded as a far better system than to allow individuals to indicate to the U.S. Treasury that a portion of their income-tax money be given to the national political party of their choice, while ignoring state and local campaigns.

Certainly, since campaign expenses have risen to such great heights, the limits in existing laws are too low.

It would be more effective if the loopholes were closed and a higher ceiling placed on the amounts that could be contributed by individuals.

Similarly, present laws ignore the ways by which labor unions as well as corporations indirectly supply campaign funds in large quantities, though direct contributions are forbidden.

American politics needs to be cleaned up and better ways devised for financing campaigns. But very little will be accomplished unless public opinion is insistent upon an obvious reform—that no individual or organization should be permitted to use any funds whatsoever to buy votes.

The Washington 'Merry-Go-Round'

After years of litigation, Robert G. (Bobby) Baker has been sentenced.

Originally charged with nine counts carrying penalties of up to 48 years in jail and $47,000 in fines, he finally was convicted on seven counts of income tax evasion, theft and conspiracy.

His sentence: one to three years on each count, running concurrently.

Before sentence was pronounced, the judge asked Baker if he had anything to say.

Baker replied, "I have nothing, your honor."

This utterance has our vote as the understatement of the year.

In five years as Senate Democratic secretary, Baker built a business and financial empire that included motels, restaurants, considerable real estate, a $25,000 home, a vending machine company and a major interest in a profitable mortgage insurance company.

In 1963, he estimated his net worth in excess of $2.5 million.

Baker, of course, meant he had nothing to say, before the court, but plenty could have been said.

A July 8 report by the Senate Rules Committee said Baker was "guilty of many gross improprieties" while serving the Senate.

Allegations, never subsequently proved, linked Baker with call girls and kickbacks. Committee testimony associated Baker with gambling interests in Las Vegas, Miami and the Dominican Republic.

Most of the charges didn't stick. Baker's activities were morally wrong, but not illegal.

He was a wheeling-dealing operator, and Washington congressional circles is where the action is. Baker took advantage of the sunny season to make a bundle of hay.

The Baker case is not finished. His attorneys are planning to appeal the conviction.

But there is no appeal open to the Washington environment that permits under-the-table manipulations.

So long as it is permitted to exist there will be Bobby Baker cases.

Where The Money Is

The Rhodes administration is sponsoring another proposal that will give its political opposition an excuse to quiver with holy indignation.

This newest proposal, introduced by Sen. Walter Powell R-Butler, would give cities and counties clear authority to issue self-retiring revenue bonds for industrial purposes.

They have authority now, but it isn't clear.

Purpose of the bonds would be to provide easy capital for enterprise that wanted to expand in a locality, or transfer its location. As in all other programs of the Rhodes administration, it would be designed to create more employment opportunities for Ohioans, more productive enterprise for Ohio, more tax revenue for Ohio communities.

The self-retiring revenue bonds would be serviced with the proceeds from private enterprise. There would be no public revenue used in servicing the securities.

The advantage this would hold over community improvement corporations, which were the Rhodes administration's previous idea for raising quick capital for Ohio enterprise, is that the public bonds would be exempt from federal taxation.

This would put them where the eager money is in the current money market.

Tax-exempt bonds are in demand.

Capital is in demand.

Ohio needs the jobs.

It gives political opposition fits to have it put this way day in and day out, but it is vastly reassuring to most Ohioans to know their government is leaving no stone unturned to give them more chances to earn a living.

Every state in the Union wishes it had the same attitude in its top administration — administrators trying to create wealth, not just spend it.

Full Of Thought

Everyone who knows a dog on a first-name basis has wondered what his haired-over friend is thinking about.

Only ignorant geeks who don't know any dogs on this basis are guilty of saying there is nothing to think about because dogs don't think, only react according to instinct.

Of course dogs think.

They also react. Reaction does not preclude thought. People react, also think. Dogs likewise.

The Twillery dogs think. Muttie, for example, is a deep-dish thinker. He thinks about the weather. When he knows it is cold outside, he thinks it would be a fine idea to hide before thrust outside for a midnight romp. Romp scamp, thinks Muttie — and refuses to come out of hiding.

Muttie's predecessor at the bottom of the Twillery totem pole was offered a chance to run for Congress one year and turned it down because she thought the work would be confining. "I'd rather be free to chase rabbits and catch mice," she explained.

We once saw her dig out a rabbit and bring it to her hero, the Irish setter. She laid it gently at his feet, then backed off and sat down, knowing the way to a dog's heart is through his alimentary canal. The setter was overwhelmed.

We often wonder if Jason, the golden retriever from New Hampshire who is on an extended visit, wonders about his dislocation and the whereabouts of his rightful master, mistress and youth champion. Does he remember?

Letter From Max

Dear Truman Twill:

Did you ever have a relatively insignificant experience which loomed large in your mind at the time and you remembered for the rest of your life?

In the Great Depression of the 1930s, there were not many freighters operating on the Great Lakes, because business was so bad.

On this particular freighter, the Back Bay, they changed captains every few trips. Scuttlebutt among the crew had it that the company had all these idle captains sitting at home and wanted to give each of them a little work.

Another theory was that the boat wasn't making any money and the company was trying to find a captain who could make the boat profitable.

For a large part of one summer, the Back Bay hauled sheet steel in big heavy bundles from the Cuyahoga River in Cleveland to Ford's River Rouge plant at Detroit.

The dock in Cleveland was not very far up the Cuyahoga River, but it was far enough so the boat could not back down the river astern by itself but had to get a tug at $25 or $50 an hour to help it.

So here comes this new captain aboard in white shirt and tie, hands on hips, feet spread apart and barking orders.

"We don't need a tug," he said. "We'll go up to the turning basin, turn around and go out under our own power."

Well, Twill, the Cuyahoga River is crookeder than a Mafia member and has more bridges than a dentist.

Up the river we go hell-bent, skidding around the harbor turns and whistling 'the bridges open.

Reversing the boat's direction in the turning basin wouldn't have been difficult with the aid of a tug, but it took a lot of seesawing just using the boat's propeller.

The captain's exuberance caused the prow to bump a dock in the turning basin, and he stormed down to the engine room where a bewildered first engineer was at the engine controls.

"This ship doesn't budge until the chief engi-

Of course he remembers. The mere mention of his native habitat makes him dolorous. He will go to his treasure chest and get out his keepsakes, to feed his nostalgia.

We have seen dogs think their way through itineraries involving closed gates, wriggle-through holes under fences, doors that could be pushed open and barriers that could be jumped over. Some think better than others, the same as humans.

But mostly what the Twillery dogs think is that men are more to be pitied than censured for their oddities of behavior, such as toil.

Dogs toil not, neither do their heads spin.

One recent day, the head of the house was digging up a dead bush. It was hard work, made harder by realization that he was ringed in by three observant dogs, lying with their heads between their front paws, studying him.

This happens all the time — this observation, psychiatry style. More than once the head of the house has thrown down the tools of toil in disgust and walked away, muttering, "Inmentionable sons of dogs, staring at me as if there was something pitiable about leading a human's life. Maybe there is."

Maybe there is.

It's something to think about when you see one dog curled up in a corner of the couch, another stretched out full length on the stair landing and another dozing off in a shower stall dreaming of cool, cool water.

Dogs don't think? Who leads a dog's life in this Republic? People.

By Martin Miller

neer takes over down here," stormed the captain.

The chief engineer was summoned and assumed the ticklish job of responding to the split-second forward-and-astern signals from the bridge.

On the way back down the river, everything went as smoothly as could be expected under the circumstances. You'd have thought we were going to a fire.

At one of the last sharp bends, the first mate was standing aft to signal the skipper how close the stern was coming to the wooden pilings at the river's edge.

The stern nudged heavily but gently into a stand of pilings, which were there to absorb just such blows.

The mate, in a rare moment of condescension, turned to a lowly crew member standing nearby, smiled and said, "I guess we'll have to fire the captain."

That is the kind of thing a lowly crew member remembers all the rest of his life.

Faithfully yours,

MAX

A Nosy Bunch

Lions, penguins and gorillas share a common trait—enormous curiosity.

Explorers arriving in Antarctica are often greeted by inquisitive Adelie penguins, the National Geographic Society says. The birds take a lively interest in the men and their machines.

Lions also have a lot of what killed the smaller cat. They hunt food only at night, but curiosity sours them to daytime activity, too. British anthropologist Louis S. B. Leakey says lions often come into his camps in East Africa during the day to see what is going on.

Curiosity reaches its apex among monkeys, the great apes, and men. When two University of Wisconsin scientists went to the Belgian Congo to observe gorillas, they found the gorillas observed them back with intense interest. A mother gorilla clambered up a tree to get a better look at the primates from the United States.

A Freedom That's Lost In The Shuffle

Two Good Years For Ray Bliss

By Raymond Moley

Will H. Hays, while he was Republican chairman, coined the phrase, "Elect, not select."

He meant the duty of a party chairman was to stay neutral among aspirants for nomination. But once a nominee was selected, the chairman should provide the machinery to elect him.

On April 1, 1965, Ray Bliss was elected to the office held by Hays from 1917 to 1932. Bliss confronted the job of uniting a divided party.

That Republican wounds of 1964 are healing now is in no small degree due to the patient ministrations of Bliss. He certainly helped to bring about the GOP revival in 1966.

It took a while for the political correspondents to understand him. They had been accustomed to dealing with GOP chairmen who held the job on a part-time basis and did more talking than working. Len Hall, for instance, won his way with correspondents by his jovial manner.

Bliss was not talkative, and in his few public appearances he spoke only of the "nuts and bolts" of organization. He is measurably friendly and accessible, but he slaps very few backs.

When he took over the overgrown staff left by his predecessors, he thoroughly reorganized it. Several of the displaced bureaucrats peddled their grievances abroad.

Bliss runs a political headquarters in the manner of an efficient business executive. He has been in politics for more than 30 years.

As state Republican chairman in Ohio he created a small, but highly effective staff. His businesslike methods won him the support of businessmen and from them he received plenty of money.

A succession of victories at the polls won him prestige beyond his own state. Only once was there a catastrophic defeat. That was in 1958 when the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, despite the advice of Bliss and of the then Sen. Bricker, put a right-to-work amendment on the ballot.

After that disaster, Bliss began a comprehensive party reorganization that has returned Ohio to its traditional status as a solid Republican state.

While Bliss is no ideologue, he has recognized that the Republican party has great need of a series of principles and issues to which all factions of the GOP can rally.

He has been instrumental in creating the Republican Coordinating Committee, composed of five former presidential nominees, five senators, seven leaders in the House, five governors, five vice-chairmen of the National Committee, the president of the State Republican Legislative Association and Bliss himself as chairman.

From time to time this group meets and reaches agreement on the issues facing the nation.

As a result, we may expect that when the 1968 GOP convention meets there will be little or no conflict over a platform.

Bliss realizes the major function of a party is to mobilize and educate workers. He has encouraged this by the holding of seminars and workshops at the grass roots.

Such efforts do not get the headlines that presidential aspirants receive. But when the great issue is joined in 1968 the party will have ready for action a host of trained precinct, county and state workers.

Despite the concentration of the press on issues, political success depends upon organization. Issues are the byproduct of a successful party. Attractive candidates are desirable.

But organization gets out the vote. And the vote is the payoff.

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

I have gotten over the original impact of the fire at the Wesco plant last Monday, and have put together some of my thoughts.

First, I must express my thanks and admiration for the job done by the Fire Department, police and sheriff's department and all those who had a hand in assisting them. I was unable to be brought to the scene until after 10 o'clock when the inferno was raging at its height. I had visions of the entire plant being burned to the ground. Priest Urges Laymen Vote To Pick Pope

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest-author has called for a dramatic break in church tradition by permitting laymen to elect the Pope and bishops.

The Rev. Joseph O'Donoghue of Washington proposed Friday that the Pope be elected to a single 10-year term and bishops to single eight-year terms. Father O'Donoghue is a member of the Priests' Senate of the Washington Archdiocese.

This could result, he said, in the election of younger men, adding, "The cardinals won't elect a 40-year-old Pope now in the fear he may rule for 40 more years."

The priest explained in an interview the election of high church officials would be "true to the ideal" of early church history.

"It was the practice in the first 12 centuries that a bishop couldn't take over without the approval of the clergy and the people," he said.

Earlier, Father O'Donoghue told the convention of the National Council of Catholic Men that laymen and priests should be given greater freedom in charting church policy.

Again, he called for wider use of elections.

Father O'Donoghue's idea is based on what he calls a "representative democracy" working upward from the layman by various committees to the parish, diocesan and national levels.

"We have been considering the great problems of the church behind closed doors for so long that some of us may really believe that with a few concessions... we can continue to do business as usual," he said.

Father O'Donoghue, author of "Elections in the Church," also said Roman Catholic priests might leave the priesthood in great numbers if they and the laity are forbidden greater involvement in church policy.

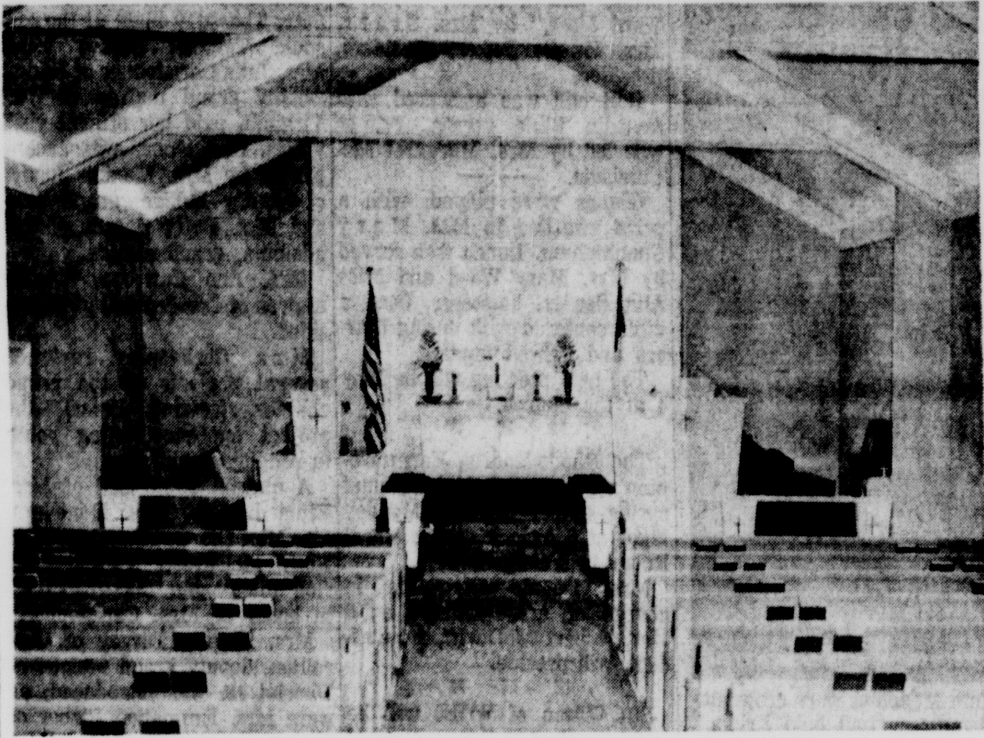

If the church remains static, Father O'Donoghue said that in two years, "the probing eyes of American Catholics... will have looked at the church so closely that we will no longer be able to hide the dichotomy between our magnificent speeches and our paltry performances."

During the annual session of the East Ohio Conference held here in 1908, Anderson was detached from the mother church and the Rev. Charles J. Thompson was appointed to the charge, serving until 1914. Sheridan Ave. was renamed W. 9th St. and the church was then named in honor of Bishop Anderson.

EARLY IN 1961, the Anderson church was notified by the state that the new highway in the California Hollow area would require the land upon which the church was situated.

A lot was purchased on the edge of Calcutta Acres on the Smiths Ferry Rd. and erection of the present church was begun. The cornerstone was laid in the summer of 1961 and by November of the same year the congregation held its first service in the new church. The minister was the Rev. Do You Baptize Babies?

In our articles recently we have been trying to explain some of our reasons for believing as we do.

People have a perfect right to question us about our beliefs. If we believe something that is not taught in the Word of God, we ought to give it up. If, however, it is taught in the Word of God, we should be happy to give the "book, chapter, and verse" for it.

In this article we would like to consider the question of infant baptism. Many in the religious world have the practice of taking a little baby and sprinkling water on its head and then calling this baptism. We reject this doctrine as being contrary to the teaching of the Bible. Some may want to know why.

First, we reject infant baptism because the infant has no reason for being baptized. Baptism, as taught in the Scriptures, is a requirement for receiving the forgiveness of sins. Since an infant is not guilty of sin, he would have no reason for being baptized. (Acts 2:38; Acts 22:16) The Bible does not teach that babies inherit the guilt of the sins of their parents. In fact, Jesus taught that parents must become like the little children before they can enter the kingdom of heaven. Mt. 18:3; Mt. 19:14. God has never given a law to a baby. Since sin is a transgression of the law (1 Jno. 3:4) the baby could not possibly be guilty of sin.

Second, we reject the doctrine of infant baptism because the Bible teaches that faith and repentance are prerequisites for baptism. In Mark 16:16 Jesus taught that a person must believe and be baptized. Since a baby cannot believe, it follows that a baby should not be baptized. In Acts 2:38 Peter told people that they must repent and then be baptized in order to be saved. Since a baby has done no wrong, it is evident that he could not repent of sins. Thus, only people who can believe and repent are subjects for baptism.

Third, we do not accept the doctrine of infant baptism because baptism is not sprinkling water on a person's head. Baptism is a burial in water! Paul teaches this in Rom. 6:3-4. "Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death? Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death... Notice also Col. 2:12 and Acts 8:36-38.

These are some of our reasons for not accepting the doctrine of infant baptism. The Bible just does not teach this doctrine. I cannot afford to accept any teaching that does not conform to the Word of God. The Bible will judge me at the last day. Jno. 12:48. I will not be judged by the ideas of men. Why cannot all men be content to just follow God's Word?

The 60th anniversary of the Anderson Methodist Church, of which the Rev. Carl Stockdale is pastor, will be observed Sunday morning and afternoon.

Dr. Ralph Gray, superintendent of Methodist churches in the Steubenville district, will be guest speaker at the 10:50 a.m. worship.

The fourth quarterly conference will convene at 1 p.m., followed by a dedication service at 2 for the new double bulletin board erected on the lawn last fall. Dr. Gray, assisted by the host pastor, will be in charge of the dedication.

LUNCHEON will be served at noon by women of the church.

The church, known in its early years as the Sheridan Ave. Methodist Episcopal Church, came into existence at a cottage prayer meeting at the home of Mrs. A. T. Allmon in October 1906. A group of Sunnyside residents, in the West End, organized and built a chapel, which was dedicated in the summer of 1907. The Rev. Paul Secrest was the first pastor.

During the annual session of the East Ohio Conference held here in 1908, Anderson was detached from the mother church and the Rev. Charles J. Thompson was appointed to the charge, serving until 1914. Sheridan Ave. was renamed W. 9th St. and the church was then named in honor of Bishop Anderson.

EARLY IN 1961, the Anderson church was notified by the state that the new highway in the California Hollow area would require the land upon which the church was situated.

A lot was purchased on the edge of Calcutta Acres on the Smiths Ferry Rd. and erection of the present church was begun. The cornerstone was laid in the summer of 1961 and by November of the same year the congregation held its first service in the new church. The minister was the Rev. George Johnston, now retired and living in Wellsville.

Rev. Stockdale and his wife Virginia live at 177 Pennsylvania Ave. They have a son Gene and a foster daughter Delores.

A MOMENT OF MEDITATION

Do You Baptize Babies?

In our articles recently we have been trying to explain some of our reasons for believing as we do.

People have a perfect right to question us about our beliefs. If we believe something that is not taught in the Word of God, we ought to give it up. If, however, it is taught in the Word of God, we should be happy to give the "book, chapter, and verse" for it.

In this article we would like to consider the question of infant baptism. Many in the religious world have the practice of taking a little baby and sprinkling water on its head and then calling this baptism. We reject this doctrine as being contrary to the teaching of the Bible. Some may want to know why.

First, we reject infant baptism because the infant has no reason for being baptized. Baptism, as taught in the Scriptures, is a requirement for receiving the forgiveness of sins. Since an infant is not guilty of sin, he would have no reason for being baptized. (Acts 2:38; Acts 22:16) The Bible does not teach that babies inherit the guilt of the sins of their parents. In fact, Jesus taught that parents must become like the little children before they can enter the kingdom of heaven. Mt. 18:3; Mt. 19:14. God has never given a law to a baby. Since sin is a transgression of the law (1 Jno. 3:4) the baby could not possibly be guilty of sin.

Second, we reject the doctrine of infant baptism because the Bible teaches that faith and repentance are prerequisites for baptism. In Mark 16:16 Jesus taught that a person must believe and be baptized. Since a baby cannot believe, it follows that a baby should not be baptized. In Acts 2:38 Peter told people that they must repent and then be baptized in order to be saved. Since a baby has done no wrong, it is evident that he could not repent of sins. Thus, only people who can believe and repent are subjects for baptism.

Third, we do not accept the doctrine of infant baptism because baptism is not sprinkling water on a person's head. Baptism is a burial in water! Paul teaches this in Rom. 6:3,4. "Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death? Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death..." Notice also Col. 2:12 and Acts 8:36-38.

These are some of our reasons for not accepting the doctrine of infant baptism. The Bible just does not teach this doctrine. I cannot afford to accept any teaching that does not conform to the Word of God. The Bible will judge me at the last day. Jno. 12:48. I will not be judged by the ideas of men. Why cannot all men be content to just follow God's Word?

SIXTY-FIVE WALLEYES — a total of 150 pounds of fish — died recently under the spears of two area men. The sad part is that most of these fish, taken by the poachers below the spillway at Berlin Reservoir in Mahoning County, were females on the spawning run.

The fish were gilled by Earl Thomas Anderson of East Liverpool and William Dearth of Fredericktown R. D. 3. Each was fined $50 and costs after pleading guilty to charges of "taking fish by means other than angling" at hearings before Mahoning County Court Judge John Reddy.

They were arrested by Russ Tippet of Columbiana and Lou Grubbs of Cortland, special law enforcement agents for the Division of Wildlife. They work in a 19-county area on special cases and aiding county game protectors.

Anderson and Dearth speared the fish after dark March 29-30 in knee-deep water below the spillway, according to Tippet, who said he and Grubbs chased the two on foot.

When interrupted in their spearing, the two poachers were only 100 feet from nets set in the river by the state to capture walleyes from which eggs and spawn are taken for hatching in fish farms, the agents said.

Tippet said Anderson was arrested in the same area in 1963 for fishing without a license.

The largest fish taken was a 27-inch, 9-pound female that was full of eggs.

The fish were brought to Columbiana County and given to the County Home near Lisbon and the County Jail.

Agents say that a 24-hour watch now is being maintained in the area. This is in addition to the 1,000 foot area posted against fishing through April 30 when the migration will end.

The agents pointed out that it is legal to spear rough fish, such as suckers, shad, carp and the like, but no game fish may be taken in this manner.

THE FAME OF BEAVER CREEK as a good stream for smallmouth bass has spread considerably in the region.

Fishing at Leesville Lake the past weekend, the subject of Beaver Creek came up in conversation with two fishermen from Steubenville.

They had heard about the creek and the good bass fishing, but were reluctant to drive from Steubenville to try their luck because they weren't sure the stories were true.

They said several persons had told them of catching nice strings of bass, but they put them off as "fish tales." When assured there is good fishing in the creek, they said they will visit here this summer and try their luck.

They also had heard about Zeppernick Lake and Ruff Pond. Fishermen from Steubenville and the surrounding area have carried back reports of good bass and bluegill fishing.

When you mention these two small bodies of water to local fishermen, they usually turn up their noses.

WE WERE SKUNKED at Leesville. Don Doland, my brother-in-law, and I spent two days at the lake and didn't catch a thing.

We used everything but the kitchen sink, and I would have tried that if one had been available.

But, we weren't the only ones not catching fish. In the two days, I never saw a fish landed and never talked with any fishermen who had even had a bite.

The lake was very rough Saturday and on Sunday it was so windy that it was virtually impossible to do any fishing at all.

Leesville is very good for largemouth bass and several nice muskies are taken every year.

It is easy to get to this area. Follow Route 39 to Carrollton and then it is only 15 minutes to the Petersburg end of the lake. There are two nice camping areas on the lake, operated by the Muskingum Watershed Conservancy.

Boat rentals are reasonable and if you camp overnight, you get a reduced rate on the boats if taken on a 24-hour period.

"OPEN HOUSE" will be held April 16 at Beaver Creek State Park as part of a statewide observance.

The public is invited to inspect the facilities and become acquainted with what is available.

Members of the Columbiana County Forests and Parks Council will assist Elmer Hiles, park manager, in conducting tours and answering questions.

THE FINAL DATE for applying for the Ohio Division of Wildlife's cooperative pheasant rearing program has been extended to April 15. Interested sportsmen's groups or individuals may obtain application forms from Ralph Drake,

Columbiana County game protector, or the wildlife district office at Akron.

Under the program the division furnishes day-old pheasant chicks to those who agree to comply with rearing and holding specifications.

The number of chicks furnished depends on the facilities each group or individual has available. This program provides additional birds for harvest the same years they are released, but have little or no effect on future pheasant populations.

BEFORE YOU TAKE a cruise in your boat, make sure you have the necessary 1967 licenses for both the boat and motor.

Boaters also are reminded not to remove the existing boat plate from their craft as it will be needed to affix the validation tag being issued again this year.

In Columbiana County, tags can be obtained at the Columbiana County Motor Club at 213 E. 4th St., East Liverpool, the Division of Parks and Recreation office at Guilford Lake or Charlie's Boats & Motors at 794 Benton Rd., Salem.

FISHING HAS BECOME the topic of interest these days with most sportsmen, but if you are a hunter who likes to keep your scatter gun in use all year, there is still plenty of opportunity.

Nothing can top the fast action of spring and summer crow shooting. It takes cleverness and good shooting to score on these tricky flyers. Dull colored clothes and a good call are a necessity.

Crow shooting also offers sportsmen a chance to cement relations with farmers. This is important when regular hunting season rolls around and the competition for a place to hunt become keen.

Crows are abundant in Columbiana County and it isn't necessary to drive a long distance to find them. There are no seasons or bag limits.

CLENDENNING LAKE is practically back to its normal pool stage and is starting to clear. Some small bass and a few nice crappies have been taken this week.

Northern pike have started hitting in streams along Lake Erie and in other state lakes where they have been stocked. Guilford Lake has some northern.

Bass have started moving in Beaver Creek and reports are received every day of someone catching a few.

Hellgramites can be caught in the creek now. One area fisherman caught about 100 Monday morning. He will keep them on hand for fishing this summer when bait is hard to come by.

Tappan Lake is starting to produce some bass fishing. A five-pounder was caught last week.

A WALLEYE TAGGING study is underway in Lake Erie and within the next three weeks about 4,000 fish will be wearing bright colored tags.

Ohio and Ontario, Canada, biologists are tagging adult walleyes as part of a cooperative study to determine movements and spawning habits.

Tagging sites will include Tossaint Reef, Kelleys Island Shoal, Chickenee Reef, Middle Ground Shoal and Sandusky Bay.

Ontario will use a small colored plastic disc type tag placed just forward of the first dorsal fin. Ohio will use a soft yellow plastic dart-type tag which will be placed just under the last dorsal fin.

Fishermen catching a walleye that has been tagged are urged to return the tag or tag number to the Ohio Division of Wildlife, P. O. Box 650, Sandusky, 44870.

The division also would like the name and address of the fisherman, length and weight of tagged fish, date was caught, where caught and how caught.

The sender will be notified about when and where the fish was tagged and other pertinent information of interest.

PENNSYLVANIA'S TROUT season opens next Saturday. Fishermen by the thousands will be lining the many streams and lakes throughout the state on the opening morning.

If you are going fishing, keep your eye out for the new Palomino Rainbow Trout—a light bronze colored hybrid. It has been stocked on an experimental basis and the stocking was confined to selected lakes.

ED ORR of Glenmoor has the right idea. He is leaving about April 20 for one month fishing and camping trip at Pymatuning Lake. His companion will be Joe Post of Depot Rd., Lisbon R. D.

Ed likes to fish for walleyes and usually takes his share. He has his boat made into a floating "cabin" and plans to eat, sleep and fish from it.

FIVE GENERATIONS. Sandra Maylene Shaffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shaffer of Barclay Hill Rd., Industry, is the fifth generation of her mother's family. Sandra, born Oct. 14, was baptized Sunday at the Mill Creek United Presbyterian Church at Hookstown. The family includes, left to right sitting, Clarence Beemer of Barclay Hill Rd., great-great-grandfather, Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer, and Mrs. Thomas Glenn of Little Blue Rd., great-great-grandmother, and standing, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Soisson Sr., of Barclay Hill Rd. great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Soisson of Route 30, grandparents, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Crooks of Little Blue Rd., great-grandparents.

The Verse Box

Sweet Dreams

Before you go to sleep tonight:
Did you turn that spigot tight?
Brush your teeth, say your prayers?
Are the lights out 'way downstairs?

Know where Junior's rubbers are?
Did you think to lock the car?
Cover up that parakeet?
Order corn flakes? Shredded wheat?

The family's sleeping like a log --
But did you think to walk the dog?
Lock the windows? Bolt the door?
Better go and check some more.

Did you check the thermostat?
Wind the clock? Put out the cat?
Call your daughter again to check
About that soreness in her neck?

Sure you took your diet pills?
Paid water, gas and electric bills?
Is all in order? Think it through;
Everything depends on you.

If you're sure all's A-O.K.
It's all right to hit the hay.
Carson and the late show's over --
So settle back and gently snore.

A GROWING CHURCH

By Rev. Alexander Haines
Green Valley Methodist Church
Georgetown Methodist Church

Text: Romans 12:5

It is so wonderful to see a growing church in any community and especially in the community in which one lives.

To some people a growing church means to add more members or to have more money coming in. To some people a growing church means to have more organization and a good educational program. To some people a growing church means to add more rooms to the church building.

It is good to enlarge the congregation, to have a large amount of money to support the church program, to have more organization to carry forth a program and to have rooms added to the church building. There is no law against these elements for the progress of the church.

BUT ALL THESE efforts and labor would be in vain if the church were to become only a place for social gathering and an attractive building for tourists.

The true and real meaning of a growing church is the progress shown in the spiritual growth of the pastor and members. The church which has a vision of winning souls to Christ carries the real goal and object of the church program.

When this is so, then the

By Ed Reed

REV. ALEXANDER HAINES

church is alive. A spiritually alive church is a growing church.

Who is responsible for the spiritual growth of the church? The minister and members who call themselves followers of Jesus Christ are responsible.

Some very essential truths must be practiced among the members of the community and church to produce spiritual growth.

1. The church grows where there is a spirit of love, unity and understanding among her people or members.

2. THE SPIRITUAL growth of the church depends upon her leaders who should be men and women of good character, faith, hope, courage, knowledge of the Bible, life of prayer, humble, sincere, just and honest.

3. The growth of the church depends upon a willingness to work without expecting earthly reward.

4. The spiritual growth of the church depends upon where God is honored in the person of Jesus Christ, where the Holy Spirit plays an important role in the life of individuals, where the Gospel is preached in truth and love, and where the lives of members are lived according to the teachings of Christ, the Saviour and Lord of Lords.

You And The Law

The distinction between when a person may be considered an employer or an employee if he works on a farm may be a fine line. Often it is necessary to determine this relationship in the area of workmen's compensation.

For example, Harry and Sam owned adjoining farmland. Every year Harry helped Sam cut corn. In return, Sam helped Harry combine his wheat. It seemed a simple enough arrangement, until one day Harry lost part of his hand in the corn picker. How would payment of the damages be handled?

THE DISTINCTION here was a problem. It seemed that Sam had 200 acres of corn to pick, but Harry had 500 acres of wheat to combine. There was a considerable difference between the two jobs, although no mention of this was ever made between the two men. This was not a simple exchange of work. Because of this, Harry could be classed as an employee of Sam, not just a "friend who was helping with the farm work." They had established an employer-employee relationship without knowing it. Sam could be liable for a workmen's compensation claim if he has the coverage. Otherwise he may be liable for a law suit.

TAKE A tenant farmer for another example. The tenant farmer may not be normally classed as an employee of the land owner. However, if the land owner has the tenant's children doing certain chores for him, such as taking care of a horse, cleaning some equipment for him, etc., then there might be an employer-employee relationship established. The land owner could then be liable for workmen's compensation claims.

In many instances, however, farm services are so-called custom services. They are done by an independent employee who is definitely established here. It is then the contractor and the employer for workmen's compensation claims.

Area Men In Vietnam Conflict

By LIDA SMITH

What price is paid for freedom?

Marine Sgt. William Theiss found the cost dear in the Vietnam conflict last January when he was wounded on a patrol and lay for three hours in the brush with bodies of dead comrades around him as the Viet Cong kept up constant fire to keep away rescue helicopters.

Sgt. Theiss, 31, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Theiss of 228-A Washington St., Newell, is now in the Philadelphia Naval Hospital.

He was wounded in the left arm and head in the fire fight, and his leg was later removed at the knee while in a hospital in Japan.

The sergeant said the ordeal of lying alone with his dead companions about him was more painful than the wounds he suffered.

A CAREER soldier, he was home on leave before Christmas and was also able to spend the holiday with his brother and sister-in-law, Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Paul E. Theiss and family at Okinawa, before reporting for his second voluntary term of Vietnam duty.

Several months after he first arrived he wrote, "Over here you see young boys turn into old men overnight."

His mother said, "On leave at home before leaving for duty he would pace restlessly from room to room when the subject of Vietnam and the conflict would come up. He never wanted to talk about the men he knew in Vietnam nor the trouble they were having in the divided country."

His parents, shocked when they received word through the Marine Recruiting Headquarters at Steubenville that their son was wounded. All doubts were shattered when they later received confirmation of the injuries from the local recruiter.

His mother, who works at the Wellsville China Co., can only think of having her son home where she can take care of him. "No matter what he says, you know he's hiding some of the pain," she said.

After Sgt. Theiss was rescued and taken to the hospital at Saigon, and later to Japan, he phoned his parents to reassure them of his well-being.

They didn't know that he had been grazed on the head by a bullet or shot in the arms until a few weeks after the accident.

"He was in 'good' spirits when he called," he said.

HE WAS FLOWN to Washington, D. C., and later to the Philadelphia hospital in March. Mr. and Mrs. Theiss were going to visit him at the Naval Hospital when he surprised them with a phone call, saying that he would be home for the Easter weekend for a family gathering.

Mrs. Theiss said that he joined the Marine Corps when he was 17, and has been in the Corps for 14 years. "He would always return early from leaves," she said, "so he could be with his friends and the life he'd chosen."

Whether he will remain in the service or not has not been decided — or even discussed, Mrs. Theiss said. "It's his decision entirely, though we would like to have him at home."

For Sgt. Theiss there will be months of learning how to walk all over again with an artificial limb. But he will do it because it's not in his nature to do anything else," Mrs. Theiss commented.

SIXTY-FIVE WALLEYES — a total of 150 pounds of fish — died recently under the spears of two area men. The sad part is that most of these fish, taken by the poachers below the spillway at Berlin Reservoir in Mahoning County, were females on the spawning run.

The fish were gilled by Earl Thomas Anderson of East Liverpool and William Dearth of Fredericktown R. D. 3. Each was fined $50 and costs after pleading guilty to charges of "taking fish by means other than angling" at hearings before Mahoning County Court Judge John Reddy.

They were arrested by Russ Tippet of Columbiana and Lou Grubbs of Cortland, special law enforcement agents for the Division of Wildlife. They work in a 19-county area on special cases and aiding county game protectors.

Anderson and Dearth speared the fish after dark March 29-30 in knee-deep water below the spillway, according to Tippet, who said he and Grubbs chased the two on foot.

When interrupted in their spearing, the two poachers were only 100 feet from nets set in the river by the state to capture walleyes from which eggs and spawn are taken for hatching in fish farms, the agents said.

Tippet said Anderson was arrested in the same area in 1963 for fishing without a license.

The largest fish taken was a 27-inch, 9-pound female that was full of eggs.

The fish were brought to Columbiana County and given to the County Home near Lisbon and the County Jail.

Agents say that a 24-hour watch now is being maintained in the area. This is in addition to the 1,000 foot area posted against fishing through April 30 when the migration will end.

The agents pointed out that it is legal to spear rough fish, such as suckers, shad, carp and the like, but no game fish may be taken in this manner.

THE FAME OF BEAVER CREEK as a good stream for smallmouth bass has spread considerably in the region.

Fishing at Leesville Lake the past weekend, the subject of Beaver Creek came up in conversation with two fishermen from Steubenville.

They had heard about the creek and the good bass fishing, but were reluctant to drive from Steubenville to try their luck because they weren't sure the stories were true.

They said several persons had told them of catching nice strings of bass, but they put them off as "fish tales." When assured there is good fishing in the creek, they said they will visit here this summer and try their luck.

They also had heard about Zeppernick Lake and Ruff Pond. Fishermen from Steubenville and the surrounding area have carried back reports of good bass and bluegill fishing. When you mention these two small bodies of water to local fishermen, they usually turn up their noses.

WE WERE SKUNKED at Leesville. Don Doland, my brother-in-law, and I spent two days at the lake and didn't catch a thing.

We used everything but the kitchen sink, and I would have tried that if one had been available.

But, we weren't the only ones not catching fish. In the two days, I never saw a fish landed and never talked with any fishermen who had even had a bite.

The lake was very rough Saturday and on Sunday it was so windy that it was virtually impossible to do any fishing at all.

Leesville is very good for largemouth bass and several nice muskies are taken every year.

It is easy to get to from this area. Follow Route 39 to Carrollton and then it is only 15 minutes to the Petersburg end of the lake. There are two nice camping areas on the lake, operated by the Muskingum Watershed Conservancy.

Boat rentals are reasonable and if you camp overnight, you get a reduced rate on the boats if taken on a 24-hour period.

"OPEN HOUSE" will be held April 16 at Beaver Creek State Park as part of a statewide observance.

The public is invited to inspect the facilities and become acquainted with what is available.

Members of the Columbiana County Forests and Parks Council will assist Elmer Hiles, park manager, in conducting tours and answering questions.

THE FINAL DATE for applying for the Ohio Division of Wildlife's cooperative pheasant rearing program has been extended to April 15. Interested sportsmen's groups or individuals may obtain application forms from Ralph Drake,

Columbiana County game protector, or the wildlife district office at Akron.

Under the program the division furnishes day-old pheasant chicks to those who agree to comply with rearing and holding specifications.

The number of chicks furnished depends on the facilities each group or individual has available. This program provides additional birds for harvest the same years they are released, but have little or no effect on future pheasant populations.

BEFORE YOU TAKE a cruise in your boat, make sure you have the necessary 1967 licenses for both the boat and motor.

Boaters also are reminded not to remove the existing boat plate from their craft as it will be needed to affix the validation tag being issued again this year.

In Columbiana County, tags can be obtained at the Columbiana County Motor Club at 213 E. 4th St., East Liverpool, the Division of Parks and Recreation office at Guilford Lake or Charlie's Boats & Motors at 794 Benton Rd., Salem.

FISHING HAS BECOME the topic of interest these days with most sportsmen, but if you are a hunter who likes to keep your scatter gun in use all year, there is still plenty of opportunity.

Nothing can top the fast action of spring and summer crow shooting. It takes cleverness and good shooting to score on these tricky flyers. Dull colored clothes and a good call are a necessity.

Crow shooting also offers sportsmen a chance to cement relations with farmers. This is important when regular hunting season rolls around and the competition for a place to hunt become keen.

Crows are abundant in Columbiana County and it isn't necessary to drive a long distance to find them. There are no seasons or bag limits.

CLENDENNING LAKE is practically back to its normal pool stage and is starting to clear. Some small bass and a few nice crappies have been taken this week.

Northern pike have started hitting in streams along Lake Erie and in other state lakes where they have been stocked. Guilford Lake has some northerns.

Bass have started moving in Beaver Creek and reports are received every day of someone catching a few.

Hellgramites can be caught in the creek now. One area fisherman caught about 100 Monday morning. He will keep them on hand for fishing this summer when bait is hard to come by.

Tappan Lake is starting to produce some bass fishing. A five-pounder was caught last week.

A WALLEYE TAGGING study is underway in Lake Erie and within the next three weeks about 4,000 fish will be wearing bright colored tags.

Ohio and Ontario, Canada, biologists are tagging adult walleyes as part of a cooperative study to determine movements and spawning habits.

Tagging sites will include Tossaint Reef, Kelleys Island Shoal, Chickenolee Reef, Middle Ground Shoal and Sandusky Bay.

Ontario will use a small colored plastic disc type tag placed just forward of the first dorsal fin. Ohio will use a soft yellow plastic dart-type tag which will be placed just under the last dorsal fin.

Fishermen catching a walleye that has been tagged are urged to return the tag or tag number to the Ohio Division of Wildlife, P. O. Box 650, Sandusky, 44870.

The division also would like the name and address of the fisherman, length and weight of tagged fish, date was caught, where caught and how caught.

The sender will be notified about when and where the fish was tagged and other pertinent information of interest.

PENNSYLVANIA'S TROUT season opens next Saturday. Fishermen by the thousands will be lining the many streams and lakes throughout the state on the opening morning.

If you are going fishing, keep your eye out for the new Palomino Rainbow Trout—a light bronze colored hybrid. It has been stocked on an experimental basis and the stocking was confined to selected lakes.

ED ORR of Glenmoor has the right idea. He is leaving about April 20 for one month fishing and camping trip at Pymatuning Lake. His companion will be Joe Post of Depot Rd., Lisbon R. D.

Ed likes to fish for walleyes and usually takes his share. He has his boat made into a floating "cabin" and plans to eat, sleep and fish from it.

FIVE GENERATIONS. Sandra Maylene Shaffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shaffer of Barclay Hill Rd., Industry, is the fifth generation of her mother's family. Sandra, born Oct. 14, was baptized Sunday at the Mill Creek United Presbyterian Church at Hookstown. The family includes, left to right sitting, Clarence Beemer of Barclay Hill Rd., great-great-grandfather, Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer, and Mrs. Thomas Glenn of Little Blue Rd., great-great-grandmother, and standing, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Soisson Sr., of Barclay Hill Rd. great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Soisson of Route 30, grandparents, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Crooks of Little Blue Rd., great-grandparents.

The Verse Box

Sweet Dreams

Before you go to sleep tonight:
Did you turn that spigot tight?
Brush your teeth, say your prayers?
Are the lights out 'way downstairs?

Know where Junior's rubbers are?
Did you think to lock the car?
Cover up that parakeet?
Order corn flakes? Shredded wheat?

The family's sleeping like a log --
But did you think to walk the dog?
Lock the windows? Bolt the door?
Better go and check some more.

Did you check the thermostat?
Wind the clock? Put out the cat?
Call your daughter again to check
About that soreness in her neck?

Sure you took your diet pills?
Paid water, gas and electric bills?
Is all in order? Think it through:
Everything depends on you.

If you're sure all's A-O-K,
It's all right to hit the hay.
Carson and the late show's over --
So settle back and gently snore.

A GROWING CHURCH

By Rev. Alexander Haines
Green Valley Methodist Church
Georgetown Methodist Church

Text: Romans 12:5

It is so wonderful to see a growing church in any community and especially in the community in which one lives.

To some people a growing church means to add more members or to have more money coming in. To some people a growing church means to have more organization and a good educational program. To some people a growing church means to add more rooms to the church building.

It is good to enlarge the congregation, to have a large amount of money to support the church program, to have more organization to carry forth a program and to have rooms added to the church building. There is no law against these elements for the progress of the church.

BUT ALL THESE efforts and labor would be in vain if the church were to become only a place for social gathering and an attractive building for tourists.

The true and real meaning of a growing church is the progress shown in the spiritual growth of the pastor and members. The church which has a vision of winning souls to Christ carries the real goal and object of the church program.

When this is so, then the

church is alive. A spiritually alive church is a growing church.

Who is responsible for the spiritual growth of the church? The minister and members who call themselves followers of Jesus Christ are responsible.

Some very essential truths must be practiced among the members of the community and church to produce spiritual growth.

1. The church grows where there is a spirit of love, unity and understanding among her people or members.

2. THE SPIRITUAL growth of the church depends upon her leaders who should be men and women of good character, faith, hope, courage, knowledge of the Bible, life of prayer, humble, sincere, just and honest.

3. The growth of the church depends upon a willingness to work without expecting earthly reward.

4. The spiritual growth of the church depends upon where God is honored in the person of Jesus Christ, where the Holy Spirit plays an important role in the life of individuals, where the Gospel is preached in truth and love, and where the lives of members are lived according to the teachings of Christ, the Saviour and Lord of Lords.

Area Men In Vietnam Conflict

By LIDA SMITH

What price is paid for freedom?

Marine Sgt. William Theiss found the cost dear in the Vietnam conflict last January when he was wounded on a patrol and lay for three hours in the brush with bodies of dead comrades around him as the Viet Cong kept up constant fire to keep away rescue helicopters.

Sgt. Theiss, 31, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Theiss of 228 A Washington St., Newell, is now in the Philadelphia Naval Hospital.

He was wounded in the left arm and head in the fire fight, and his leg was later removed at the knee while in a hospital in Japan.

The sergeant said the ordeal of lying alone with his dead companions about him was more painful than the wounds he suffered.

A CAREER soldier, he was home on leave before Christmas and was also able to spend the holiday with his brother and sister-in-law, Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Paul E. Theiss and family at Okinawa, before reporting for his second voluntary term of Vietnam duty.

Several months after he first arrived he wrote, "Over here you see young boys turn into old men overnight."

His mother said, "On leave at home before leaving for duty he would pace restlessly from room to room when the subject of Vietnam and the conflict would come up. He never wanted to talk about the men he knew in Vietnam nor the trouble they were having in the divided country."

His parents, shocked when they received word through the Marine Recruiting Headquarters at Steubenville that their son was wounded. All doubts were shattered when they later received confirmation of the injuries from the local recruiter.

His mother, who works at the Wellsville China Co., can only think of having her son home where she can take care of him. "No matter what he says, you know he's hiding some of the pain," she said.

After Sgt. Theiss was rescued and taken to the hospital at Saigon, and later to Japan, he phoned his parents to reassure them of his well-being.

They didn't know that he had been grazed on the head by a bullet or shot in the arms until a few weeks after the accident.

"He was in 'good' spirits when he called," he said.

HE WAS FLOWN to Washington, D. C., and later to the Philadelphia hospital in March. Mr. and Mrs. Theiss were going to visit him at the Naval Hospital when he surprised them with a phone call, saying that he would be home for the Easter weekend for a family gathering.

Mrs. Theiss said that he joined the Marine Corps when he was 17, and has been in the Corps for 14 years.

"He would always return early from leaves," she said, "so he could be with his friends and the life he'd chosen."

Whether he will remain in the service or not has not been decided — or even discussed, Mrs. Theiss said. "It's his decision entirely, though we would like to have him at home."

For Sgt. Theiss there will be months of learning how to walk all over again with an artificial limb. But he will do it because it's not in his nature to do anything else," Mrs. Theiss commented.

OFF THE RECORD

By Ed Reed

"You must give credit to Charley—he sure knows how to serve a subpoena."

You And The Law

The distinction between when a person may be considered an employer or an employee if he works on a farm may be a fine line. Often it is necessary to determine this relationship in the area of workmen's compensation.

For example, Harry and Sam owned adjoining farmland. Every year Harry helped Sam cut corn. In return, Sam helped Harry combine his wheat. It seemed a simple enough arrangement, until one day Harry lost part of his hand in the corn picker. How would payment of the damages be handled?

THE DISTINCTION here was a problem. It seemed that Sam had 200 acres of corn to pick, but Harry had 500 acres of wheat to combine. There was a considerable difference between the two jobs, although no mention of this was ever made between the two men. This was not a simple exchange of work.

Because of this, Harry could be classed as an employee of Sam, not just a "friend who was helping with the farm work." They had established an employer-employee relationship without knowing it. Sam could be liable for a workmen's compensation claim if he has the coverage. Otherwise he may be liable for a law suit.

TAKE A tenant farmer for another example. The tenant farmer may not be normally classed as an employee of the land owner. However, if the land owner has the tenant's children doing certain chores for him, such as taking care of a horse, cleaning some equipment for him, etc., then there might be an employer-employee relationship established. The land owner could then be liable for workmen's compensation claims.

In many instances, however, farm services are so-called custom services. They are done by an independent contractor and the employer-employee relationship is definitely established here. It is then the contractor and the employer for workmen's compensation claims.

TB Clinic Issues Monthly Report

LISBON — The Columbiana County Tuberculosis Clinic at the Courthouse registered one new case of TB during March. Dr. M. K. Singer, director, reports there was one hospital discharge last month, but no admissions and no deaths.

Ten county TB patients remained in hospitals as of March 31 — six at Ohio Tuberculosis Hospital, three in veterans' hospitals and one in the Mahoning County Sanatorium.

Four of the hospitalized are from Salem and two each from East Liverpool, Wellsville and the general health district — the county area outside the four cities.

Three patients were placed on home medication last month, bringing to 142 the total in this category. Fifty-five are in the general health district, 40 in East Liverpool, 26 in Salem, 14 in Wellsville and seven in East Palestine.

Nurses made 64 visits and Dr. Singer held five consultations. The clinic gave 1,975 Mantoux tuberculin tests and took 116 chest X-rays.

Tarpaulins Solve Copter Crew Hazard

AKRON, Ohio — One hazard facing helicopter crews in Vietnam — blinding clouds of dust stirred up by the rotor blades on takeoff and landing—has been solved with the use of vinyl-surfaced tarpaulins to blanket landing areas.

The Navy recently purchased 165 of the protective tarpaulins from Goodyear to be used on helicopter landing sites. They keep down dust and vegetation which had been hampering operations.

Material used in the 110 by 200-foot protective coverings consists of vinyl film laminated to both sides of a nylon scrim. The material is noted for its high strength and resistance to tear, abrasion, burns, mildew and fungus.

Chief of Police Leon T. Zahndt said he learned Collins was in Cambridge and issued a warrant Wednesday for his arrest. Cambridge police arrested him the next day.

Collins lived at an area motel four months ago when he pleaded guilty to the police charge. Mayor Dean Stockman gave the defendant an opportunity to make arrangements to comply with the sentence—both fine and jail—but he did not return.

Truce

Quang Tri City just 10 miles to the south.

South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky formally protested the attack on the police post and Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu threatened to invade the north or bomb Hanoi.

Today, with a temporary lull in action along the buffer zone, the South Vietnamese proposed the 24-hour truce. They included safeguards to prevent the Reds from resupplying their forces as they did during the February truce.

The statement by the Foreign Ministry repeated the South Vietnamese offer to meet at any time with North Vietnamese military officers to discuss a military cease-fire. This offer was made by Premier Ky last month in a note to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant.

Buddhist groups around the world had appealed to South Vietnam to observe a truce on Buddha's birthday. Normally the birthday celebrations in Buddhist countries last for one week.

The South Vietnamese statement said the truce proposal was made with the concurrence of all the powers which took part in last year's Manila conference — the United States, Thailand, Australia, New Zealand, South Korea and South Vietnam.

The air war over North Vietnam continued unabated despite the lull on the ground.

American pilots flew 102 missions over the north Friday and four destroyers bombarded the coast — including the Turner Joy which was hit by a Red shore battery.

The Turner Joy, accompanied by the destroyer Duncan, had moved inshore to bombard a string of barges near dusk when a Red shell blew an 18-inch hole in her superstructure.

Quang Tri City just 10 miles to the south.

South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky formally protested the attack on the police post and Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu threatened to invade the north or bomb Hanoi.

Today, with a temporary lull in action along the buffer zone, the South Vietnamese proposed the 24-hour truce. They included safeguards to prevent the Reds from resupplying their forces as they did during the February truce.

The statement by the Foreign Ministry repeated the South Vietnamese offer to meet at any time with North Vietnamese military officers to discuss a military cease-fire. This offer was made by Premier Ky last month in a note to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant.

Buddhist groups around the world had appealed to South Vietnam to observe a truce on Buddha's birthday. Normally the birthday celebrations in Buddhist countries last for one week.

The South Vietnamese statement said the truce proposal was made with the concurrence of all the powers which took part in last year's Manila conference — the United States, Thailand, Australia, New Zealand, South Korea and South Vietnam.

The air war over North Vietnam continued unabated despite the lull on the ground.

American pilots flew 102 missions over the north Friday and four destroyers bombarded the coast — including the Turner Joy which was hit by a Red shore battery.

The Turner Joy, accompanied by the destroyer Duncan, had moved inshore to bombard a string of barges near dusk when a Red shell blew an 18-inch hole in her superstructure.

The six unions, representing machinists, car men, electricians, boilermakers, sheet metal workers, and firemen and oilers, have issued a strike call for 6 a.m. Wednesday.

There is even a dispute over what date the unions are free to strike under provisions of the Railway Labor Act. The industry contends the strike can't be called before 12:01 a.m. Thursday.

Two Indicted In Shootings

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — The Stark County Grand Jury today returned first-degree murder indictments against two men police say shot and killed one man and wounded two others in a holdup attempt at the Elm Inn near Alliance last Saturday morning.

The men are accused of entering the Elm Inn wearing hoods, brandishing pistols and demanding money.

The holdup attempt ended with bar patrons attacking the would-be holdup men with bar stools and pool cues, police said. Three men were shot and wounded before police arrived.

Charged by the special session of the grand jury were Donald G. Manis, 24, of Salem and James K. Rotuna, 19, of Alliance. Each was charged with first-degree murder, 15 counts of assault with intent to rob and two counts of shooting with intent to wound.

Fatally wounded in the melee was Theodore Ussery, 30, of Alliance. Wounded and still hospitalized were Rodney Allenbaugh, 33, of Damascus, and Robert Moore, 34, of Alliance. All three were shot.

Manis and Rotuna were arraigned last Saturday in Canton Municipal Court. They are in Stark County Jail without bond.

Rash Of 21 Homers Hit In 5 Exhibition Games

By HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer

It's been two weeks since Easter but the bunny . . . or rather the rabbit . . . is still around, propelling baseballs over fences with amazing regularity.

There were 21 home runs hit in five exhibition games Friday, including a pair by two collegiate sluggers against San Francisco ace Juan Marichal. The rabbit ball was never livelier.

Homers accounted for all of the runs in Atlanta's 4-3 11-inning victory over Minnesota and Philadelphia's 8-7 triumph over Pittsburgh. Those two games provided 16 of the day's long shots.

Hank Aaron's second homer of the night won the game for the Braves. He had tied the score in the bottom of the ninth with his first.

In Friday's other games, San Francisco defeated the University of Santa Clara 7-3, Cincinnati downed Cleveland 6-3 and Houston shaded the New York Yankees 1-0. The game between the Chicago White Sox and Chicago Cubs at Oklahoma City was rained out.

Marichal, the Giants' $100,000 right-hander went seven innings in a final tuneup for Tuesday's opening day assignment against the Cardinals and was tagged for homers by Santa Clara's Al Strange and Rod Austin.

Jim Davenport, bidding for San Francisco's shortstop job, clubbed a three-run homer and a single, leading the Giants' attack.

Pete Rose and Dick Simpson hammered homers for the Reds with Simpson's a three-run shot in the second inning. Both blows came off Cleveland's Jack Kralick.

Larry Dierker worked seven scoreless innings for Houston against the Yankees. The Astros pushed across the game's only run in the third inning.

Rosters Are Announced For Colt League Teams

Rosters for the four local teams in the Colt League have been announced.

Schellander Gets Revenge In Swimming

DALLAS (AP) — It was a repetition of history — in reverse — Friday night when Don Schellander of Yale, hero of the 1964 Olympics but not doing very well of late, beat his arch rival, Greg Buckingham of the Santa Clara Swim Club, in the 200-yard freestyle of the National AAU Indoor Swimming Championships.

In the NCAA meet, Buckingham had whipped Schellander but the latter was ill and not up to par.

Friday night the shoe was on the other foot. Buckingham was returning to action after missing the first night of the AAU because of food poisoning.

Buckingham said the illness had not affected him. He showed it by doing 1:42.2, just a half-second over the record.

Schollander though swam it in 1:41.2 to set an American and AAU record by a half-second, and he had his revenge over Buckingham, whom he beat by a length.

Don, the only swimmer ever to win four gold medals in the Olympic Games, will go after his second victory today when he tries in the 100-yard freestyle.

Indiana University shot into the lead in the team battle with 49 points. Santa Clara Swim Club was second with 42 and Yale third with 32.

Six events wind up the meet this afternoon.

Jack Nicklaus said goodbye. Nicklaus, the 210-pound Ohio strongboy who set the Masters record with a 271 two years ago, set another — in reverse — Friday when he failed to make the cut for the last two rounds of the 31st Masters Golf Tournament.

"Everything I did was wrong," Nicklaus said after he became the first defending champion who failed to make the cut.

"But I've had pretty good luck here before," said the man who was shooting for an unprecedented third straight Masters' title. "Maybe it's about time I started having some bad luck."

Yancey, the former West Pointer who led by three strokes the first day, said he had some bad luck, too.

"I was playing well enough to increase my lead, not decrease it," he said after an erratic round of five pars, six birdies and seven bogeys.

That gave him a 73 for 140 and a one stroke lead over former PGA champion Bobby Nichols, Gay Brewer, 47-year-old, two-time U.S. Open champion Julius Boros and 22-year-old English pro, Tony Jacklin.

George Archer, who had Friday's best round at 67, was alone at 142, while Tommy Aaron and Doug Ford were bracketed at 143.

Majors Will Play Ball Monday

By JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer

A rash of major trades, a few retirements and a smattering of injuries add up to a talent shuffle of about 35 per cent from 1966's opening line-ups when the big leagues start the baseball season Monday and Tuesday.

Washington will jump the gun, as usual, with its special Presidential Opener. President Lyndon Johnson has been invited to throw out the first ball. LBJ or his sub will be working on a four-year Senator losing streak.

The New York Yankees, who ousted the Senators from their traditional home in last place,

Opening Day Games Set At Capital, Cincy

will provide the opposition Monday afternoon at D.C. Stadium. Among the non-political events will be the unveiling of Mickey Mantle as the Yankee first baseman.

Cincinnati also opens at home Monday, a special privilege granted to the Reds, presumably in the days of Abner Doubleday. The usual sellout crowd at Crosley Field will get a first look at Manager Dave Bristol's new triple shift line-up with Pete Rose in left, Deron Johnson at third and Tommy Helms at second.

The Cincinnati fans also will be the first to view the latest Los Angeles Dodger mixture, without Sandy Koufax and Mauerly Wills.

Rookie Gene Michael, obtained from Pittsburgh in the Wills deal, will play shortstop and Bob Bailey, another ex-Pirate from the same transaction will be in left. Wes Parker, the first baseman, will be in center because of Willie Davis' sprained ankle (not the sun) and Ron Fairly, the right fielder, will play first. Ron Hunt, the former Met, will be on second.

That leaves catcher John Roseboro and third baseman Jim Lefebvre (Nate Oliver opened at second last year) from last season's opening alignment. Lou Johnson may or may not be in the outfield depending on his stomach problem.

The Dodger shifts give a rough idea of the changes that have taken place in the majors since last October. Only Pittsburgh, having added Wills and moved him to third base, and Baltimore remain relatively unchanged.

Baltimore and Pittsburgh have been established as the two favorites by the sports writers, the sportscasters and the pros at Las Vegas. Minnesota and Detroit are supposed to furnish the most opposition to the Orioles. San Francisco and Atlanta are expected to challenge the Pirates.

'Hit Richard' Is Cry Around Hockey Loop

By DICK COUCH Associated Press Sports Writer

MONTREAL (AP) — Henri Richard has been a marked man since he followed big brother Maurice into the Montreal Canadiens' line-up 12 years ago.

But the elusive Pocket Rocket was still moving in high gear today as the Canadiens met New York's hungry Rangers in the second game of their National Hockey League best-of-7 playoff series.

"The thing around the league seems to be to hit Richard," Montreal Coach Toe Blake said Friday as the streaking Canadiens prepared to resume their drive for a third consecutive Stanley Cup title. "They've been doing it — and getting away with it — for 12 years. But he takes everything they throw at him and just keeps going."

The other semifinal series in the NHL playoffs, Toronto at Chicago, resumes Sunday night. The champion Chicago Black Hawks beat the Maple Leafs 5-2 Thursday in the opener of their best-of-7 series.

Richard, 31-year-old skating marvel whose overtime goal against Detroit last spring nailed Montreal's seventh Cup triumph in 11 years, was shaken up in a first-period collision with New York defenseman Harry Howell Thursday night. He banged his head against the boards behind the Ranger net and was knocked unconscious.

After a brief rest, however, Henri returned to his center spot and was instrumental in the five-goal third-period spree that gave the Canadiens a 6-4 victory. Twenty-two seconds after Claude Provost's goal cut the Rangers' lead to 4-2, Richard won a faceoff in New York ice and set up defenseman J. C. Tremblay, whose long drive found its way into the cage.

The game had been scheduled to be on national television in the United States, but CBS canceled it because of the AFTRA strike.

Aqueduct Races Off Again Today

By ED SCHUYLER JR. Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Aqueduct remained closed today, and its idleness was causing activity among the state's legislators which could become more frantic than bettors whose horse has been disqualified after finishing first.

The big track shut down Wednesday when owners refused to enter horses in protest over legislative failure to increase purses.

For a time Friday, it looked like racing activity would resume today with a unique one-race card.

George D. Widener entered Ring Twice and the Jaclyn Stable of Dr. Leon Levy entered Model Fool in the $50,000-added Excelsior Handicap, and the New York Racing Association announced a one-race program would be held.

But later in the day, NYRA President Edward T. Dickinson issued the following statement: "There will be no racing at Aqueduct Saturday due to the fact that both entries for the Excelsior Handicap were withdrawn by their owners because they felt no useful purpose would be served."

Meanwhile, activity stepped up on the legislative front.

Senate Minority Leader Joseph Zaretski, a democrat, said he expects Republican Gov.

Majors Will Play Ball Monday

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

A rash of major trades, a few retirements and a smattering of injuries add up to a talent shuffle of about 35 per cent from 1966's opening line-ups when the big leagues start the baseball season Monday and Tuesday.

Washington will jump the gun, as usual, with its special Presidential Opener. President Lyndon Johnson has been invited to throw out the first ball. LBJ or his sub will be working on a four-year Senator losing streak.

The New York Yankees, who ousted the Senators from their traditional home in last place,

Opening Day Games Set At Capital, Cincy

will provide the opposition Monday afternoon at D.C. Stadium. Among the non-political events will be the unveiling of Mickey Mantle as the Yankee first baseman.

Cincinnati also opens at home Monday, a special privilege granted to the Reds, presumably in the days of Abner Doubleday. The usual sellout crowd at Crosley Field will get a first look at Manager Dave Bristol's new triple shift line-up with Pete Rose in left, Deron Johnson at third and Tommy Helms at second.

The Cincinnati fans also will be the first to view the latest Los Angeles Dodger mixture, without Sandy Koufax and Maury Wills.

Rookie Gene Michael, obtained from Pittsburgh in the Wills deal, will play shortstop and Bob Bailey, another ex-Pittsburgher from the same transaction, will be in left. Wes Parker, the first baseman, will be in center because of Willie Davis' sprained ankle (not the sun) and Ron Fairly, the right fielder, will play first. Ron Hunt, the former Met, will be on second.

That leaves catcher John Roseboro and third baseman Jim Lefebvre (Nate Oliver opened at second last year) from last season's opening alignment. Lou Johnson may or may not be in the outfield depending on his stomach problem.

The Dodger shifts give a rough idea of the changes that have taken place in the majors since last October. Only Pittsburgh, having added Wills and moved him to third base, and Baltimore remain relatively unchanged.

Baltimore and Pittsburgh have been established as the two favorites by the sports writers, the sportscasters and the pros at Las Vegas. Minnesota and Detroit are supposed to furnish the most opposition to the Orioles. San Francisco and Atlanta are expected to challenge the Pirates.

After the two Monday games — Los Angeles at Cincinnati and New York at Washington — the 16 other clubs will swing into action Tuesday. The full two-day 10-game program may

'Hit Richard' Is Cry Around Hockey Loop

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

MONTREAL (AP) — Henri Richard has been a marked man since he followed big brother Maurice into the Montreal Canadiens' line-up 12 years ago.

But the elusive Pocket Rocket was still moving in high gear today as the Canadiens met New York's hungry Rangers in the second game of their National Hockey League best-of-7 playoff series.

"The thing around the league seems to be to hit Richard," Montreal Coach Toe Blake said Friday as the streaking Canadiens prepared to resume their drive for a third consecutive Stanley Cup title. "They've been doing it — and getting away with it — for 12 years. But he takes everything they throw at him and just keeps going."

The other semifinal series in the NHL playoffs, Toronto at Chicago, resumes Sunday night. The champion Chicago Black Hawks beat the Maple Leafs 5-2 Thursday in the opener of their best-of-7 series.

Richard, 31-year-old skating marvel whose overtime goal against Detroit last spring nailed Montreal's seventh Cup triumph in 11 years, was shaken up in a first-period collision with New York defenseman Harry Howell Thursday night. He banged his head against the boards behind the Ranger net and was knocked unconscious.

After a brief rest, however, Henri returned to his center spot and was instrumental in the five-goal third-period spree that gave the Canadiens a 6-4 victory. Twenty-two seconds after Claude Provost's goal cut the Rangers' lead to 4-2, Richard won a faceoff in New York ice and set up defenseman J. C. Tremblay, whose long drive found its way into the cage.

The game had been scheduled to be on national television in the United States, but CBS canceled it because of the AFTRA strike.

Aqueduct Races Off Again Today

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Aqueduct remained closed today, and its idleness was causing activity among the state's legislators which could become more frantic than bettors whose horse has been disqualified after finishing first.

The big track shut down Wednesday when owners refused to enter horses in protest over legislative failure to increase purses.

For a time Friday, it looked like racing activity would resume today with a unique on-race card.

George D. Widener entered Ring Twice and the Jaclyn Stable of Dr. Leon Levy entered Model Fool in the $50,000-added Excelsior Handicap, and the New York Racing Association announced a one-race program would be held.

But later in the day, NYRA President Edward T. Dickinson issued the following statement: "There will be no racing at Aqueduct Saturday due to the fact that both entries for the Excelsior Handicap were withdrawn by their owners because they felt no useful purpose would be served."

Meanwhile, activity stepped up on the legislative front.

Senate Minority Leader Joseph Zaretski, a democrat, said he expects Republican Gov.

Warriors, Hawks Resume Playoff

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors, who hit a snag in the third game of their Western Division National Basketball Association playoffs with the St. Louis Hawks, hope their fast break will carry them right into the championship finals.

The key to Warrior success, says their top scorer Rick Barry, is running.

"We'll have to do more running to win Saturday," he said. San Francisco won the first two games of the playoff 117-115 and 143-136 before they were derailed Wednesday 115-109 by the Hawks.

Barry scored 38 and 47 points, respectively, in the first two games and 31 here when the Hawks won.

Radatz Is Key To Club, Claims Tribe Manager

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — With the season opener only three days away, Manager Joe Adcock of the Cleveland Indians says the key player on the squad is Dick Radatz, who specializes in relief pitching.

"Right now Radatz holds the key to this club," Adcock said Friday. "If he can keep going the way he has, we'll be okay. But he can't, well, I don't know if we have anyone else to do the job in the bullpen pen."

The manager doesn't believe any other reliever on the staff can be the stopper every solid baseball club needs.

"They're going to have to go like hell for at least seven innings because I don't know if our bullpen can pick them up or not. We'll have to wait and see."

Pitching was the Indians' downfall as they dropped a 6-3 decision to the Cincinnati Reds.

draw about 325,000 if the weather is right. Four of the Tuesday games will be played at night.

Baltimore's defending champs who won the pennant by nine games and then swept the Dodgers in a four-straight World Series, open at home against the Minnesota Twins, who have been strengthened by the addition of pitcher Dean Chance. However, it will be Jim Kaat, the 25-game winner, who will oppose the Orioles in the opener.

Mayo Smith, the new Detroit manager, will send the Tigers into action against the California Angels in Anaheim, Calif., in a night game. The Tigers have shifted Dick McAuliffe to second from short and the Angels have added Don Mincher and Jimmie Hall from the Twins in the deal for Chance.

Joe Adcock, who was the Angels' first baseman last opening day, will be in the dugout as new Cleveland manager when the Indians open at Kansas City in another night game. Rookie Gus Gil at second base is the main Indian change but the A's have an assortment of new faces who were not around a year ago, including pitcher Jim Nash.

Dick Williams, the new Boston skipper, also will have many changes from the line-up. Billy Herman sent out last opening day when the Red Sox open at home against the Chicago White Sox, scourge of the Grapefruit League.

Pittsburgh's National League favorites visit Shea Stadium to face the New York Mets who may be struggling to hold onto last year's modest gain (ninth place) this summer.

Philadelphia, playing Tony Taylor at first for recuperating Bill White, will bump into Ken Holtzman, already being billed as the new Koufax, when they face the Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field.

The Atlanta powerhouse will be in the Astrodome to take on the Houston Astros who may present the novel sight of Eddie Mathews playing first base. The night contest will be the first National League game for ex-Yankee Clete Boyer, now the Braves' third baseman.

St. Louis will also have night action in what figures to be a fine pitching duel between the Cards' Bob Gibson, a 21-12 performer, and the San Francisco Giants' Juan Marichal, the $100,000 dandy with the 25-6 record.

BASEBALL PREVIEW

8-Los Angeles Dodgers

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PITCHING—You don't lose best pitcher in baseball, then talk in terms of replacing him. Bob Miller is not Sandy Koufax. But he is a lefty and could win 10 games as a starter. That leaves 17 more wins. Bill Larkin, 20-game winner at Albuquerque, Joe Moeller, Dick Calmus all must contribute. Four arms for one. It still doesn't measure worth of a Koufax. With Sandy retired, Don Drysdale (13-16) must reverse himself. Claude Osteen (17-14) lost a lot of tough ones last year. The kind Koufax would win. Don Sutton (12-12) was rookie surprise. Bob Lee, former American Leaguer, replaces Miller in bullpen. Ron Peranoski, Jim Brewer, rest of relief crew.

RATING — B.
INFIELD — John Kennedy or Gene Michael must replace departed Wills. Kennedy (20-1), excellent glove man, simply can't hit. Michael promising rookie from Pirate chain. Jim Lefebvre (27-24 HR, 74 RBI) moves to third with Ron Hunt at second. Lefebvre is one of NL's best young players. Hunt (.288) a great hustler whose style makes him injury prone. Wes Parker (.253) a fine fielding first baseman. RATING — B.
OUTFIELD — Same as last year. Lou Johnson (.272), Willie Davis (.284), Ron Fairly (.228). Not much power, but consistent offense, good speed. RATING — B.

CATCHING — Jeff Tarborg better get used to waiting for John Roseboro. John's .35, caught 142 games last year, hitting .276. Jeff — if he could get chance — is quite capable, too. RATING — B.

BENCH — Bob Bailey (.276) key man. Can play third base, outfield. Was excellent second half of last season for Pirates. Back home in California. It may make a difference. Dick Schofield, another ex-Pirate, won many important games for LA last September. Valuable property. Jim Hickman, ex-Met, has power, can play first, third, outfield. RATING — B.

SUMMARY—Dodgers have won last few years on pitching, defense, speed. Loss of Koufax is immeasurable. Where do you find pitcher who wins 27 games? Loss of Wills equally important. Though slowing down a bit, Maury was always a threat at bat, on bases. National League so balanced that only a few games may separate first from seventh. Dodgers have lost too much.

PREDICTION—A long, quiet summer, 7TH.

Warriors, Hawks Resume Playoff

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors, who hit a snag in the third game of their Western Division National Basketball Association playoffs with the St. Louis Hawks, hope their fast break will carry them right into the championship finals.

The key to Warrior success, says their top scorer Rick Barry, is running.

"We'll have to do more running to win Saturday," he said.

San Francisco won the first two games of the playoff 117-115 and 143-136 before they were derailed Wednesday 115-109 by the Hawks.

Barry scored 38 and 47 points, respectively, in the first two games and 31 here when the Hawks won.

Radatz is Key To Club, Claims Tribe Manager

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — With the season opener only three days away, Manager Joe Adcock of the Cleveland Indians says the key player on the squad is Dick Radatz, who specializes in relief pitching.

"Right now Radatz holds the key to this club," Adcock said Friday. "If he can keep going the way he has, we'll be okay. But he can't, well, I don't know if we have anyone else to do the job in the bullpen."

The manager doesn't believe any other reliever on the staff can be the stopper every solid baseball club needs.

"They're going to have to go like hell for at least seven innings because I don't know if our bullpen can pick them up or not. We'll have to wait and see."

Pitching was the Indians' downfall as they dropped a 6-3 decision to the Cincinnati Reds.

The Reds scored four runs off Jack Kralick in the first three innings and all were the result of homers by Pete Rose and Dick Simpson. The blast by Simpson in the second inning drove in three runs and gave the Reds their margin of victory.

John O'Donoghue relieved Kralick in the fourth and gave up four hits and two runs (one earned) in the three innings he worked.

Cleveland took advantage of six errors to score unearned runs in the first and fourth innings and added another on a balk in the seventh.

Cincinnati out hit the Indians 10-8.

The teams met in another exhibition at Shreveport today, with Sam McDowell scheduled to start for the Indians and Milt Pappas for the Reds.

St. Louis will also have night action in what figures to be a fine pitching duel between the Cards' Bob Gibson, a 21-12 performer, and the San Francisco Giants' Juan Marichal, the 100-0-0 dandy with the 25-6 record.

Philadelphia, playing Tony Taylor at first for recuperating Bill White, will bump into Ken Holtzman, already being billed as the new Koufax, when they face the Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field.

draw about 325,000 if the weather is right. Four of the Tuesday games will be played at night.

Baltimore's defending champs who won the pennant by nine games and then swept the Dodgers in a four-straight World Series, open at home against the Minnesota Twins, who have been strengthened by the addition of pitcher Dean Chance. However, it will be Jim Kaat, the 25-game winner, who will oppose the Orioles in the opener.

Mayo Smith, the new Detroit manager, will send the Tigers into action against the California Angels in Anaheim, Calif., in a night game. The Tigers have shifted Dick McAuliffe to second from short and the Angels have added Don Mincher and Jimmie Hall from the Twins in the deal for Chance.

Joe Adcock, who was the Angels' first baseman last opening day, will be in the dugout as new Cleveland manager when the Indians open at Kansas City in another night game. Rookie Gus Gil at second base is the main Indian change but the A's have an assortment of new faces who were not around a year ago, including pitcher Jim Nash.

Dick Williams, the new Boston skipper, also will have many changes from the line-up Billy Herman sent out last opening day when the Red Sox open at home against the Chicago White Sox, scourge of the Grapefruit League.

Pittsburgh's National League favorites visit Shea Stadium to face the New York Mets who may be struggling to hold onto last year's modest gain (ninth place) this summer.

Philadelphia, playing Tony Taylor at first for recuperating Bill White, will bump into Ken Holtzman, already being billed as the new Koufax, when they face the Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field.

Philadelphia, playing Tony Taylor at first for recuperating Bill White, will bump into Ken Holtzman, already being billed as the new Koufax, when they face the Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field.

The Atlanta powerhouse will be in the Astrodome to take on the Houston Astros who may present the novel sight of Eddie Mathews playing first base. The night contest will be the first National League game for ex-Yankee Cleve Boyer, now the Braves' third baseman.

St. Louis will also have night action in what figures to be a fine pitching duel between the Cards' Bob Gibson, a 21-12 performer, and the San Francisco Giants' Juan Marichal, the 100-0-0 dandy with the 25-6 record.

BASEBALL PREVIEW

8-Los Angeles Dodgers

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PITCHING—You don't lose best pitcher in baseball, then talk in terms of replacing him. Bob Miller is not Sandy Koufax. But he is a lefty and could win 10 games as a starter. That leaves 17 more wins. Bill Larkin, 20-game winner at Albuquerque, Joe Moeller, Dick Calmus all must contribute. Four arms for one. It still doesn't measure worth of a Koufax. With Sandy retired, Don Drysdale (13-16) must reverse himself. Claude Osteen (17-14) lost a lot of tough ones last year. The kind Koufax would win. Don Sutton (12-12) was rookie surprise. Bob Lee, former American League, replaces Miller in bullpen. Ron Peranoski, Jim Brewer, rest of relief crew.

RATING — B.

INFIELD — John Kennedy or Gene Michael must replace departed Wills. Kennedy (201), excellent glove man, simply can't hit. Michael promising rookie from Pirate chain. Jim Lefebvre (.274, 24 HR, 41 RBI) moves to third with Ron Hunt (.288) a great hustler whose style makes him injury prone. Wes Parker (.253) a fine fielding first baseman. RATING—B.

OUTFIELD — Same as last year. Lou Johnson (.272), Willie Davis (.284), Ron Fairly (.228). Not much power, but consistent offense, good speed. RATING—B.

CATCHING — Jeff Tarborg better get used to waiting for John Roseboro. John's .35, caught 142 games last year, hitting .276. Jeff — if he could get chance — is quite capable, too. RATING—B.

BENCH—Bob Bailey (.276) key man. Can play third base, outfield. Was excellent second half of last season for Pirates. Back home in California. It may make a difference. Dick Schofield, another ex-Pirate, won many important games for LA last September. Valuable property. Jim Hickman, ex-Met, has power, can play first, third, outfield. RATING—B.

SUMMARY—Dodgers have won last few years on pitching, defense, speed. Loss of Koufax is immeasurable. Where do you find pitcher who wins 27 games? Loss of Wills equally important. Though slowing down a bit, Maury was always a threat at bat, on bases. National League so balanced that only a few games may separate first from seventh. Dodgers have lost too much.

PREDICTION—A long, quiet summer, 7TH.

Hints For Home

Shoe Linings

Fashions for women this season include shoes lined with leather. Leather lining gives extra comfort and longer wear to our shoes with no added cost. This fashion notes comes from Mrs. Ruth F. Funk, Extension Home Economist for Beaver County.

Leather lining gives a shoe an extra bonus — closed pump or skimpily sandal. The lining is made from split cowhide, sheep, or kid leather and helps retain the original contours of the shoe. Leather lining eliminates curling and buckling of leather.

This almost weightless and very thin lining is made of millions of tiny pores, like your own skin. Fresh air enters the shoe from all sides. Your feet stay dry, comfortable, and free from that burning feeling because excess perspiration escapes.

Leather lining comes in many colors and designs. Some linings match the shoe itself or complement the shoe's color. Polka dots or printed linings are found on some shoes. But frost white, black and beige still remain popular colors.

Home Decorating Course

Making a home more comfortable and livable is part of a homemaker's job. To help her furnish her home with skill, the house furnishings correspondence course from Pennsylvania State University is suggested.

The course includes a section on color which tells how to combine colors into a pleasing decorating scheme. To develop this skill, she'll work with water colors and a color chart. Another section is devoted to buying furnishings, lamps, curtains, draperies and window shades.

For a copy of this home study course, interested homemakers can send their name and address with $25 to "House Furnishings," Box 5000, University Park, Pa. 16802. Check or money order should be made payable to Pennsylvania State University.

The material will be mailed promptly. A homemaker can study each lesson at her leisure, then file the course for a handy reference.

Youth Courage

Prizes Won By 3

LISBON # — Two young girls from Portuguese villages and a boy from Mozambique have been announced as winners of the Vale Flor Foundation prizes for youthful courage.

The Vale Flor prizes were founded in 1930 by the Marchioness of that name, in memory of her son and daughter who died. They consist of 20,000 escudos ($666) to be awarded to the boy or girl who during the past year has shown the greatest courage.

This year, for the first time, there were three winners. The first, 12-year-old Maria Fernanda Araujo of Entre-os-Rios in north Portugal, rushed into her blazing home and saved her 4-year-old brother. Twelve-year-old Lucia Afonso of Seardeiras in the eastern part of the country, also saved a baby brother from a burning house.

In Mozambique, 7-year-old Joaquim was guarding his boss's 3-year-old baby when two fierce dogs attacked it. He covered the baby with his own body and was severely bitten.

Twenty-four other brave youngsters' names were sent in by various citizens to compete for this year's prizes.

Junior Editors Quiz on CAMPING

QUESTION: Why is camping so much fun?

ANSWER: Our forefathers were rugged people living in the outdoors a lot of the time, doing things for themselves. Perhaps we have inherited some of their ideas. It's nice to have a comfortable house filled with modern equipment, but it's tremendous fun, too, to be on your own outdoors, to make your own fires, cook and even catch your own food, as the boys are doing in the top picture. Exercise and fresh air make us feel strong and alive and there are many beautiful and interesting things in nature to see and enjoy—still more excellent reasons for the fun of camping. Still another is that people love to get away from cities or suburbs for awhile, relax, breathe deeply, enjoy the wonders of nature. Camping, these days, has entered a new phase. Our National Park System has made many camp grounds available to people who can travel by car. This means that a large number of Americans can get to know the interesting places in their country with very little expense. In these camp grounds (lower picture) almost everyone, old or young, can enjoy nature and the outdoors.

Luther Blankenship of Laurens, S. C., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

'Shot In Arm' For The Counties?

By WILLIAM V. MERRIMAN
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — To know what Ohio Senate Bill 154 is all about, you have to take a second look at your local governmental family.

The one bent with age, financially anemic, but still the independent patriarch — that's the big city.

The young sprout is the small town turned suburbia, the one trying to decide what to do with all its vitality.

The clod tripping over itself and its friends? Oh, that's the county, the guy S.B. 154 is to help.

Its problem: Cramps, a muscular paralysis.

Prescribed treatment: More powers, more dollars, merciful abolition.

THE CHOICE of medicine depends on who the doctor is.

State Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-Cincinnati, and eight urban county colleagues, including Sen. Ralph S. Regula, R-Navarre, are suggesting the first cure, S.B. 154.

Maloney's bill, currently waiting its turn on the Senate floor, would inject a vitamin called an alternative form of county government.

The alternative form — an expanded board of county commissioners with an elected or appointed executive — has been available in Ohio since 1961. But Maloney maintains it hasn't been used primarily because it permitted a countywide vote only on issues initiated by a petition containing signatures equal to 10 per cent of those voting in the most recent gubernatorial election.

MALONEY proposes that a countywide election on alternative form could be initiated also by two-thirds vote of county commissioners.

His bill would go a couple steps further still by providing for establishment of county departments of law, personnel, detention and correction, water and sewers.

But it would retain the prosecutor, sheriff, engineer, auditor, treasurer, recorder, clerk of courts and coroner as elective offices.

Not yet introduced in the General Assembly is a third form, which would make all county offices except the executive, commissioners, auditor and prosecutor appointive. This is contained in a bill drafted by the Citizens League of Greater Cleveland.

THE ALTERNATIVE form legislation is intended to free the county from its traditional status as an agent of the state, to provide a degree of home rule now enjoyed by municipalities.

Another route toward revival is a county home-rule charter. Ohio counties have had this choice for 30 years, but Cuyahoga for one has failed three times to adopt a charter and on two other occasions has refused even to authorize a commission to draw up a charter.

Maloney frankly insists he doesn't want to change county government radically — or abolish it. He has been careful to make clear his bill isn't even close to a "metropolitan government" concept.

"Let's try to help the counties before we usurp their functions," he testified before the Senate committee which recommended his bill for passage.

He admits hardly was distraught when a proposed constitutional amendment called the Urban Service Authority fell with a 350,000-vote thud in November 1965.

The amendment would have permitted a city of at least 50,000 population to unite under a charter with surrounding rural and suburban areas to provide metropolitan services such as sewers, water and police protection.

"Give counties a chance to get these jobs done before you superimpose another layer of government," Maloney asserts.

Whether county officials go along with S.B. 154 is a question which could be answered Wednesday when the Ohio County Commissioners Association meets here.

THE BEST bet is that they won't start an argument with the bill's authors. After all, more juice wouldn't hurt the county.

But more lettuce — more dollars — is the medicinal approach closer to the hearts of many county commissioners. They're convinced they need more taxing power, which isn't included in Maloney's bill.

Maloney agrees counties are badly in need for more flexible methods of gaining revenue — beyond the property tax — but to include a provision like this, he feels, would endanger S.B. 154.

Right now he suspects he has enough worries about his proposal.

The roadblock could be the Senate Rules Committee which decides which bills make the calendar for a floor vote. Complexity of the Rules Committee is rural, which could throw a permanent net over the bill.

Though alternative forms one day could have an effect on less urbanized counties, Maloney grants the legislation wouldn't do much for them right now.

And the most frustrating opposition, one supporter of the bill muses, comes from people who simply do not relish change of any kind.

Meanwhile, the clod keeps tripping over himself and his friends.

All-Male Jury To Hear Trial Of Coppolino

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — An all-male jury, chosen from 75 persons over a five-day period, will hear the murder trial of Dr. Carl Coppolino, accused of slaying his wife.

The parade of prospective jurors ended Friday afternoon after the candidates were examined for prejudice, and inability to vote the death penalty or to convict on circumstantial evidence.

One man, D. B. House Jr., was dismissed after telling the court he believed Coppolino was guilty because he had "the most important lawyer in the United States" and wouldn't have hired him "if he wasn't guilty."

Coppolino, 34-year-old anesthesiologist, is charged with first-degree murder in the 1965 death of his first wife, Carmela. The state contends she was injected with a rare drug, succinylcholine.

The defense, led by the Boston criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey, claims Carmela, 32, died of natural causes.

This is Coppolino's second murder trial in six months. He was acquitted in December on charges of killing a family friend in New Jersey. Bailey was his attorney in that trial.

Two Lincoln Spellers Named For County Bee

LISBON — Barbara Hart, 14, an eighth-grader at Lincoln School, and Brad Rodu, 12, a seventh-grader at Lincoln, will represent Lisbon in the Columbus County spelling bee next Friday night at Beaver Local Public School.

Miss Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hart of 297 W. High St., will be making her third appearance in the county bee. She was village runnerup in 1964, champion in 1965 and finished third last year.

She won the 1967 crown Friday afternoon in a 15-round spelldown at McKinley School. Thirty-two boys and girls in grades 5-8 at Lincoln and grades 5-6 at McKinley competed. Jewyl Peterson, a McKinley sixth-grader, placed third.

Brad, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rodu of 720 E. Lincoln Way, missed "allotted." Barbara corrected his mistake and won on "amateur."

Miss Della Wetzel, principal at McKinley, was in charge. The Rev. William Ring of St. Jacob's United Church of Christ pronounced the words. Mrs. Ray Hempstead, Mrs. Charles Pike and Miss Leanne Gurney, speech-hearing therapist, were the judges.

Other contestants follow by schools and grades:

McKinley
Fifth — Laurie Cameron, Angela Pezzano, Sharon Gbur, Teresa Taylor, Moirae Derringer, Cathie Crieftfield.
Sixth — Jerry Roerig, Paula Morlan, Jane Williams.

Lincoln
Fifth — Lisa Miller and Barry Sturms.
Sixth — Connie Hanna, Karen Arsuffi, Linda Zimmerman, Kathy Bujoso.

FCC Probe Of A.T. & T. To Ring Bell In All Homes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The most important part of the government's investigation of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. reaches a climax this month — and the results ultimately will affect every telephone user in the nation.

What the Federal Communications Commission decides after final arguments during the next couple of weeks will determine how much the world's largest communications combine may be permitted to earn.

Because these earnings translate into charges for telephone calls, the results will reach virtually every American home.

Ostensibly, the investigation concerns only AT&T's financial structure affecting interstate and foreign service. But whatever the FCC decides should be AT&T's fair rate of return will be an important factor in similar decisions to be made by public utilities commissioners of every state when they consider local telephone charges.

Since the independent telephone companies — which represent 16 per cent of the nation's 93.9 million telephones — are supporting AT&T's stand, they can be expected to seek equal treatment in both local and long distance charges.

The FCC investigation involves four primary areas. The part most observers consider of greatest importance is rate of return.

Strictly speaking, this rate of return is only on facilities used in interstate and foreign service. AT&T figures its investment in these facilities last year at about $8.6 billion. But total AT&T investor-supplied funds in 1966 were about $31 billion, with total assets pegged at $35.5 billion.

AT&T says it should be permitted to earn an average of at least 8 per cent on all its investor-supplied funds, working upward eventually to 8½ per cent.

Opposing this are several economists hired by the FCC and some state public service commissions. They say AT&T earnings should be limited to 7 per cent.

Traditionally, AT&T has been permitted to earn 7½ to slightly more than 8 per cent. Or, as one AT&T official said, "every time we crowded 8 per cent we came in (to the FCC) and talked."

Last year, AT&T earned 8.19 per cent "as recorded, and 8.01 per cent, as adjusted for known changes," according to their FCC briefs.

AT&T maintains this rate of return is necessary to attract investors.

But rate of return itself is complicated by underlying issues, including over-all capitalization of the company. The Bell System, for example, believes the company's debt ratio — how much of the company's capital should be represented by debt in the form of loans or bonds — should be 30 to 40 per cent. Some economists at the FCC hearings said AT&T should go 50 per cent into debt.

'Shot In Arm' For The Counties?

By WILLIAM V. MERRIMAN
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — To know what Ohio Senate Bill 154 is all about, you have to take a second look at your local governmental family.

The one bent with age, financially anemic, but still the independent patriarch — that's the big city.

The young sprout is the small town turned suburbia, the one trying to decide what to do with all its vitality.

The clod tripping over itself and its friends? Oh, that's the county, the guy S.B. 154 is to help.

Its problem: Cramps, a muscular paralysis.

Prescribed treatment: More powers, more dollars, merciful abolition.

THE CHOICE of medicine depends on who the doctor is.

State Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-Cincinnati, and eight urban county colleagues, including Sen. Ralph S. Regula, R-Navarre, are suggesting the first cure, S.B. 154.

Maloney's bill, currently waiting its turn on the Senate floor, would inject a vitamin called an alternative form of county government.

The alternative form — an expanded board of county commissioners with an elected or appointed executive — has been available in Ohio since 1961. But Maloney maintains it hasn't been used primarily because it permitted a countywide vote only on issues initiated by a petition containing signatures equal to 10 per cent of those voting in the most recent gubernatorial election.

MALONEY proposes that a countywide election on alternative form could be initiated also by two-thirds vote of county commissioners.

His bill would go a couple steps further still by providing for establishment of county departments of law, personnel, detention and correction, water and sewers.

But it would retain the prosecutor, sheriff, engineer, auditor, treasurer, recorder, clerk of courts and coroner as elective offices. Not yet introduced in the General Assembly is a third form, which would make all county offices except the executive, commissioners, auditor and prosecutor appointive. This is contained in a bill drafted by the Citizens League of Greater Cleveland.

THE ALTERNATIVE form legislation is intended to free the county from its traditional status as an agent of the state, to provide a degree of home rule now enjoyed by municipalities.

Another route toward revival is a county home-rule charter. Ohio counties have had this choice for 30 years, but Cuyahoga for one has failed three times to adopt a charter and on two other occasions has refused even to authorize a commission to draw up a charter.

Maloney frankly insists he doesn't want to change county government radically — or abolish it. He has been careful to make clear his bill isn't even close to a "metropolitan government" concept.

"Let's try to help the counties before we usurp their functions," he testified before the Senate committee which recommended his bill for passage.

He admits hardly was distraught when a proposed constitutional amendment called the Urban Service Authority fell with a 350,000-vote thud in November 1965.

The amendment would have permitted a city of at least 50,000 population to unite under a charter with surrounding rural and suburban areas to provide metropolitan services such as sewers, water and police protection.

"Give counties a chance to get these jobs done before you superimpose another layer of government," Maloney asserts.

Whether county officials go along with S.B. 154 is a question which could be answered Wednesday when the Ohio County Commissioners Association meets here.

THE BEST bet is that they won't start an argument with the bill's authors. After all, more juice wouldn't hurt the county.

But more lettuce — more dollars — is the medicinal approach closer to the hearts of many county commissioners. They're convinced they need more taxing power, which isn't included in Maloney's bill.

Maloney agrees counties are badly in need for more flexible methods of gaining revenue — beyond the property tax — but to include a provision like this, he feels, would endanger S.B. 154.

Right now he suspects he has enough worries about his proposal.

The roadblock could be the Senate Rules Committee which decides which bills make the calendar for a floor vote. Completion of the Rules Committee is rural, which could throw a permanent net over the bill.

Though alternative forms one day could have an effect on less urbanized counties, Maloney grants the legislation wouldn't do much for them right now.

And the most frustrating opposition, one supporter of the bill mused, comes from people who simply do not relish change of any kind. Meanwhile, the clod keeps tripping over himself and his friends.

All-Male Jury To Hear Trial Of Coppolino

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — An all-male jury, chosen from 75 persons over a five-day period, will hear the murder trial of Dr. Carl Coppolino, accused of slaying his wife.

The parade of prospective jurors ended Friday afternoon after the candidates were examined for prejudice, and inability to vote the death penalty or to convict on circumstantial evidence.

One man, D. B. House Jr., was dismissed after telling the court he believed Coppolino was guilty because he had "the most important lawyer in the United States" and wouldn't have hired him "if he wasn't guilty."

Coppolino, 34-year-old anesthesiologist, is charged with first-degree murder in the 1965 death of his first wife, Carmela. The state contends she was injected with a rare drug, succinylcholine.

The defense, led by the Boston criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey, claims Carmela, 32, died of natural causes.

This is Coppolino's second murder trial in six months. He was acquitted in December on charges of killing a family friend in New Jersey. Bailey was his attorney in that trial.

Two Lincoln Spellers Named For County Bee

LISBON — Barbara Hart, 14, an eighth-grader at Lincoln School, and Brad Rodu, 12, a seventh-grader at Lincoln, will represent Lisbon in the Columbiana County spelling bee next Friday night at Beaver Local Public School.

Miss Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hart of 297 W. High St., will be making her third appearance in the county bee. She was village runnerup in 1964, champion in 1965 and finished third last year.

She won the 1967 crown Friday afternoon in a 15-round spelloff at McKinley School. Thirty-two boys and girls in grades 5-8 at Lincoln and grades 5-6 at McKinley competed. Jewyl Peterson, a McKinley sixth-grader, placed third.

Brad, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rodu of 720 E. Lincoln Way, missed "allotted." Barbara corrected his mistake and won on "amateur."

Miss Della Wetzel, principal at McKinley, was in charge. The Rev. William King of St. Jacob's United Church of Christ pronounced the words. Mrs. Ray Hempstead, Mrs. Charles Pike and Miss Leanne Gurney, speech-hearing therapist, were the judges.

Other contestants follow by schools and grades:

McKinley
Fifth — Laurie Cameron, Angela Pezzano, Sharon Gbur, Teresa Taylor, Moirae Derringer, Cathie Cribfield.
Sixth — Jerry Roerig, Paula Morlan, Jane Williams.

Lincoln
Fifth — Lisa Miller and Barry Sturms.

Sixth — Connie Hanna, Karen Arsuffi, Linda Zimmerman, Kathy Bujoso.

Seventh — Karen Kennedy, Carol Krause, Jessica Marchbanks, Sally Muntean, Linda McCamon, Richard Douglas and Jerry Teagarden.

Eighth — Linda Cooper, Susan Henson, Myra Dillenger, Curtis Tuttle, Debbie Backer, Victoria Knight and Marcia Dixon.
